President plans overhaul of intelligence agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford met for 3½ hours Saturday with Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and other top administration officials to discuss a number of options for reorganizing the nation's intelligence community.

There was no comment later from any of the participants in the meeting, who included Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and CIA Director William E. Colby.

A White House spokesman said it was unlikely the President would unveil details of his plan for restructuring the intelligence agencies until some time after his State of the Union message on Jan. 19.

Rockefeller last year headed a commission that made 30 recommendations to prevent future abuses by the CIA. They included strengthened executive and congressional oversight, along with increased internal powers for the agency's inspector general.

Some of the Rockefeller Commission recommendations, such as prohibitions against mail opening and electronic surveillance of Americans have been endorsed by the CIA, according to agency working papers obtained by NBC News.

White House counsel Philip Buchen, another participant in the meeting, said in an interview Friday that options to be discussed ranged from issuing clearer guidelines to putting all intelligence agencies under one roof.

"Every option that has been seriously considered ... will all be presented to the President," Buchen said.

Buchen declined to be specific except to say that two proposed reforms were not being seriously considered. These would create a separate agency in charge of covert operations and move the director of central intelligence into the White House.

When asked what action the President would decide to take, Buchen said, "I haven't any idea." But another administration official predicted that Ford would reveal at least the broad outlines of his intelligence reorganization in a State of the Union message Jan. 19.

In announcing the meeting on Friday, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said one of the items to be discussed would be the timetable for presenting the reform package to Congress.

While deciding on their own reform measures, administration officials also are studying a proposal by the Senate Intelligence Committee that would give Congress greatly strengthened control over intelligence agencies. The draft legislation has met with strong disapproval from White House officials who said there would have to be considerable compromise before the President would sign such a bill.

The Senate measure, now being circulated among the executive agencies, would require the White House to give Congress prior notification of any covert operations.

Present law requires only that Congress be given "timely" notification. Buchen said that means, in practice, that Congress is told immediately after covert operations have been implemented.

The Senate measure, it was learned, states that a new oversight committee to be created by the act must be informed of any "activity that is specified as especially sensitive prior to the time such activity is initiated."

The bill would reserve for Congress the right to determine which intelligence activities are especially sensitive.

"I don't think anyone seriously thinks that that language will last," one White House officials said of the Senate draft.

Eleven known dead after hotel fire

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—Searchers at a fire-ravished downtown Fremont hotel late Saturday said the death toll in the fire-explosion rose to at least 11.

Searchers removed seven bodies from an area uncovered in what was described as a pocket of bodies on the north side of the Pathfinder Hotel.

More than 80 were injured in the explosion and fire of the six-story building Saturday morning.

Authorities said the seven bodies, four women and three men, were taken from the cellar of the hotel.

According to a highway patrolman aiding the search, the earlier bodies were taken from the hotel's upper floors. The latest victims discovered were believed on the hotel's first floor when it collapsed in the explosion.

Authorities said there were more bodies in the basement area.

Fremont Fire Chief Howard Schneider had said earlier that the area which

'Shouting match' opens African talks on Angola

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — An African summit called to bring peace to Angola split into pro-Soviet and neutral factions in a dramatic, namecalling opening session Saturday.

Holden Roberto, the National Front (FNLA) leader, and Jonas Savimbi, leader of the National Union (UNITA), listened impassively as Mozambique President Samora Machel called them "agents of South Africa" and "traitors to Africa." Their battlefield alliance has been aided by the incursion of South African forces in the Angolan civil war.

Machel said only the Soviet-supported Popular Movement (MPLA) could repel South African aggression and rule Angola. Without mentioning the United States by name, he condemned what he said were "last-minute" attempts to send diplomats around Africa to rally anti-Popular Movement feeling.

President Leopold Senghor of Senegal, also speaking at the first emergency summit in the 12-year history of the Organization of African Unity, replied, "Those who condemn the alliance with South Africa would be honest only if they also condemned the alliance with Russia and Cuba." Senghor said the OAH should work for peace talks among the Angolan rivals, followed by free elections.

Spectators were unable to recall any recent OAU summit in which divisions among African states had come out into the open so clearly. Usually, OAU members thrash out their differences in private and make a public show of amity.

Sixteen presidents and prime ministers were present in the packed Africa Hall conference center. MPLA leader Agostinho Neto did not attend.

Machel said Savimbi and Roberto had forfeited their right to sit in African councils. Ugandan President Idi Amin, the OAU chairman, replied that he would treat all three Angolan leaders equally, and implied that Roberto and Savimbi would not be present when the summit resumed in a closed session Sunday morning at the Hilton Hotel.

Amin, resplendent in a blue air force uniform bearing gold braid ribbons and medals from shoulder to waist, used his unique brand of humor to defuse tension. Tapping his head, he said Africans must use their brains to overcome their problems.

Referring to his self-awarded title, a smiling Amin declared, "The field marshal is controlling the whole battle so you can all go away until tomorrow."

Most of the 21 OAU members that have individually recognized the MPLA were expected to press for OAU endorsement of the faction.

Boeing freezes WAFB project

KNOB NOSTER — A Whiteman Air Force Base project, scheduled to begin early this year and that would eventually bring about 1,200 people here for construction employment, has been postponed, Capt. Raymond Brown, chief information officer at Whiteman Air Force Base, said Saturday night.

The initial phase of the project calls for construction of a 106,000-square-foot headquarters building, which would be the first step of a program to modify the 150 Minuteman I silos in the Whiteman system. The building is to be put up by the Air Force Space and Missile Systems Organization (SAMSO), with the principal contractor being Boeing Aerospace Co., Seattle, Wash.

Brown said Boeing announced the "hold status" on the building "in order to determine how much space they need." Brown said the company believes the project may require a larger structure, and if so the federal government may need to appropriate more funds.

Boeing had planned to convert hangar space on the base for office use, Brown said, but found the space available "wasn't suitable."

He said he had no information on how many persons from here Boeing planned to hire but said most persons hired from the area would be for "administrative and support" purposes. Boeing did not say what it meant by "support," Brown said.

Although he did not know when Boeing would decide when work would begin, Brown said "We really don't expect the project to be delayed at all" and said the postponement would be for "a very short time."

The headquarters building is to be located near the present headquarters of the 351st Strategic Missile Wing, and on completion of the project, the new building will become wing headquarters. Brown added the new building would allow the wing headquarters to be located in one structure. The present headquarters is located in several buildings, he said.

Original date for completion of the building was October 1976. The building would serve as a base of operations for a silo modification program which was scheduled to start in April 1978, and be completed by September 1979.

The silo project will improve hardening of the existing missile silos, including work on associated silo hardwares. There would be no modification of the missiles.

The hardening process will include concrete covers on the silos to make them and the missiles less vulnerable to attack. The 150 missiles in the Whiteman base area are spread over 16,000 square miles in west central Missouri.

The project, announced last June, is the first major modification at Whiteman since the mid-60's.

The Air Force has not revealed the total cost of the project. Brown said the additional cost of constructing a larger building at the base would be "a small percentage of the cost of the overall contract." If this additional cost were "extremely excessive," he said, it (the project) would go back into the entire budgeting procedure, but we don't anticipate anything like that."

Shooting sends woman to Columbia hospital

A Sedalia man was charged Saturday with assault with intent to do great bodily harm in connection with the Friday night shooting of his wife at their home.

Howard Wesley Webb, 36, 107 East Cooper, was transferred to the county jail at 2:40 p.m. Saturday and is being held pending his arraignment Monday.

Mrs. Rosale Webb, 39, 107 East Cooper, was listed in fair condition at the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia, Saturday night. She was transferred to Columbia from Bothwell Hospital Friday night for treatment. Information concerning surgery on Mrs. Webb was not released by the hospital Saturday night.

Webb allegedly shot his wife three times with a .22 caliber pistol about 8:40 p.m. Friday at their home. She suffered gunshot wounds to each shoulder and one in the right side of her neck just below the ear. Police said they have the weapon.

Police first received a call that a "man with a gun was threatening a subject" and about a minute later, they received a call reporting the shooting.

Sgt. William Shobe said Mrs. Webb was "laying out on the bed" when he arrived. Police reported the shooting occurred in the rear bedroom of the home.

Police reported Saturday they do not know the reason behind the shooting. When officers arrived at the house, they reported an argument and fight were going on between Webb and the older children in the family. Police were forced to subdue Webb before making the arrest.

According to Mrs. Ann Balance, 105 East Cooper, a neighbor, Webb had been "in and out" of the residence at 107 East Cooper. She said that she did not hear any shots Friday night and did not realize what had happened until Mrs. Webb's children came to her door screaming.

They told Mrs. Balance their mother was hurt and "papa shot her," she said. The children did not tell her how the shooting occurred, Mrs. Balance added.

A hospital spokesman said Dr. Robert Glass examined Mrs. Webb and then sent her to Columbia at 9:45 p.m. to be attended by a neurosurgeon.

Kidnaping charges face man held in city jail

A Kansas man was being held by Sedalia police Saturday night on a kidnaping warrant from the Wichita, Kan., Police Department.

Ward Eugene Busker, 27, Independence, Kan., was arrested by Sedalia police at 5 a.m. Saturday at a house in the 300 block of East Second.

The FBI was notified by police of Busker's arrest Saturday morning and were investigating the report.

Busker allegedly kidnaped his ex-wife, Gloria Diane Busker, and two children at gunpoint from their home in Wichita, Kan. on Wednesday.

He then drove them into Oklahoma, Arkansas and finally Missouri. Busker told police he used only back roads to avoid police, and that whenever he saw police he "got his gun ready to fire."

The family arrived Friday at Busker's aunt's home in Stover. After his family tried to discuss the incident with him, he took his ex-wife and children to a friend's home in Sedalia. Police declined to identify the friend.

At the friend's home, Mrs. Busker called police and told them what her ex-husband had done. When police arrived at the home, Busker surrendered to them without a struggle.

The case comes under federal jurisdiction because state lines were crossed.

Police reported that Mrs. Busker and her children returned to Wichita Saturday morning.

Assistant Police Chief Charles Knapp said Saturday night Kansas authorities would transport Busker back to Kansas. Knapp said he had not yet asked Busker to waive extradition.

Hearing set for federal funds

A public hearing designed to inform and take suggestions from Sedalia No. 200 School District residents concerning the Board of Education's application for federal funds will be held at 7 p.m. Jan. 19 at the Board of Education building, Fourth and Moniteau.

The application will be made for funds under the federal Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) Title VII, which was passed two years ago to aid school districts that had recently desegregated their school systems, Harry Browder, director of federal programs, said Saturday night.

Browder said the Board of Education will meet Tuesday night to complete its plans for the application, which must be submitted to the federal government by Feb. 13. The board will finalize its application, Browder said, after hearing the public's views at the hearing.

He said there is "no telling" when the board will know if its application has been accepted.

The school district received $168,860 in ESAA funds in 1975, which were used to hire teachers' aides, remedial reading teachers and counselors, Browder said. Those funds, applied for last March, were not approved until last October, Browder said.

Russians refuse release of four Japanese islands

TOKYO (AP) — The Soviet Union on Saturday rejected Japan's request to return four islands seized at the end of World War II as a condition for concluding a peace treaty between the two countries formally ending the war.

Foreign Ministry sources said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, and Foreign Minister Kiichi Miyazawa failed to narrow their differences on the 31-year-old issue during their sixhour meeting. They are to meet again Monday.

The islands are Habomai, Shikotan, Kunashiri and Etorofu, off Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island. The Soviets have said they will return Habomai and Shikotan after a peace treaty is signed. The Japanese claim the four islands are inherently part of Japan and want them back before signing a treaty.

Gromyko, who arrived in Tokyo on Friday for a five-day official visit, proposed that the two countries sign a "treaty of good neighborliness and friendship" as a step toward concluding a full-fledged peace accord, the Foreign Ministry sources said.

However, the Soviet minister, sources said, added that the Soviet Union has no intention of forcing upon Japan the Soviet-proposed treaty.

The territorial issue is to be taken up again when the two foreign ministers meet for final talks Monday.

At the request of the Russians, Miyazawa explained the Japanese government's basic position on the proposed peace treaty between Japan and China, sources said. Moscow regards the proposed Tokyo-Peking pact as being directed against the Soviet Union.

Sources said Miyazawa explained that the "antihegemony clause," which China wants included in the treaty being negotiated by the two countries, is not directed against any country.

But sources said Gromyko warned against negotiating such an accord, which he said was an apparent attempt by China to drive a diplomatic wedge between Japan and the Soviet Union.

Other bilateral problems which came up for discussion, sources said, included Soviet fishery operations in Japanese coastal waters, safe operation for Japanese fishing boats working adjacent to Soviet waters and Soviet seizure of Japanese fishermen. No further details were immediately available.

Sources said Gromyko told Miyazawa that Moscow will return all 32 Japanese fishermen still held by the Russians.

Gromyko is also scheduled to meet Prime Minister Takeo Miki and Emperor Hirohito on Monday.

Women accused of murdering another woman

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Three women were charged with manslaughter Saturday in the strange death of young woman from Iowa who was found beaten to death amid signs her body had been painted and she was torturously abused.

"She had some weird things going along with it," said Dr. John H. Ryan, Buchanan County coroner. "When I saw her I thought it was some kind of a ritualistic killing."

The victim was Sandra Beam, 21, who is from Ute, Iowa, and had been a trainee for about two months at a Job Corps training center at Excelsior Springs, Mo., on the northeast fringe of Kansas City and about 55 miles southeast of St. Joseph.

Accused of manslaughter were Karen Sue Sharp, 18, and Judy Irene Rogers, 19, also trainees at the Job Corps center, and Gloria Jean Sowards, 24, in whose duplex apartment Miss Beam died.

St. Joseph is Miss Sharp's home, and Miss Rogers is from Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Police investigators said they found indications the beating was triggered by objections to type of men Miss Beam had associated with.

Prosecuting Attorney Robert Heider ordered the release of three young men who also were questioned. The prosecutor said the investigation was continuing and it was likely they would be witnesses.

Bonds of $20,000 were set for the three women and a preliminary hearing was scheduled for Jan. 21 before Magistrate Donald Parker.

Dr. Ryan said he would list the cause of death as bruises to the brain and general bruises over the body.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Friday's Democrat and Saturday's Capital that James Buckley was the attorney for Dr. Stanley Fisher in a $1.3 million malpractice suit. Buckley is the attorney for the plaintiffs in the case, Albert and Wanda McNish.

The story, based on a report published in the Wednesday edition of the Boonville Daily News, also said the damage suit had been settled out of court. Mrs. Fisher reported Saturday that the case is not settled.

The McNishs filed the petition after McNish suffered the loss of his right leg, from just above the knee. McNish alleged negligence on the part of Dr. Fisher as the cause for the amputation.

housed the lobby and shops of the hotel was too dangerous to enter.

Schneider had called off the search, but Dodge County Atty. and Coroner F. A. Gossett III said the search would resume if more bodies were discovered in a visual survey of the basement.

Schneider said searchers have picked through the rubble from the second through the sixth floors of the hotel but found no bodies.

One woman who was missing was located at her home. But Gossett stuck to the estimated 15 persons still missing because of the transient nature of the hotel.

All of the remaining missing are believed to have been in the northwest corner of the first floor which collapsed in the explosion.

After surveying the damage, Schneider said the 57-year-old landmark hotel, is "a total loss. It will have to be pulled down. The main structural members of it are gone."

He said it would be several days before all debris could be removed from the basement.

Rate increase request to be filed by Bell

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. announced Saturday that it will apply for rate increase next Thursday with the Missouri Public Service Commission.

R. Ray Shockley, vice president for Missouri operations, said the increase, which would raise more than $72 million in pre-tax annual revenues, was necessary to make up for higher operating costs caused by inflation and higher employe wages and increased investment in facilities.

The hike, he said, would increase local exchange rates by an average of 15.4 per cent for business and residential customers.

Shockly said Southwestern Bell has been able to give good service performance in the past despite inadequate earnings only because of increased efficiency, rigid expense controls and higher employe productivity.

A spokesman for Southwestern Bell in Sedalia said if the proposed rates are approved it will mean a monthly rate for residential users of $6.85 compared to the present $5.95. Private lines, business phones, would jump from the present $14.35 to $16.55.

Athletic goods, food taken from Washington School

A long list of athletic equipment, food, electronic gear and other equipment was taken by burglars Thursday night or early Friday morning from the Washington School, Sixth and Engineer, building custodian Roger Hill, 818 East Sixth, told police Friday.

The list included a tape recorder, nine earphone sets, a transistor radio and a multi-output unit, all taken from the principal's office. Other items taken were seven basketballs, three softballs, two table tennis sets, a chrome whistle, 26 boxes of food ranging from pizzas to "fish squares," and three garbage cans. No value was given for the stolen items.

Hill told police the burglars apparently entered the building from the roof. Police said the south fire escape was probably used and that two sets of foot prints were found on the snow on the roof.

Entry was gained by breaking a hole in the principal's office window and reaching through and unlocking the latch, police said.

Police said all offices and storerooms in the building were opened and ransacked, as well as all the classrooms except one. The food was taken from the kitchen freezer, which was forced open, and the other refrigerators, which were all open when Hill arrived.

The athletic equipment was taken from the recreation equipment storage room. Entry was gained by removing the pins from the hinges on the door to the room, police said.

Three women treated after accident

Three Sedalia women were treated and released at Bothwell Hospital Saturday afternoon following a two-car accident at 1:20 p.m. Saturday about 250 feet east of the intersection of 32nd and Southwest Blvd.

Sheila M. Karigan, 17, 416 East 12th, suffered a broken finger and Teresa Parker, 17, 116 Colonial Lane and Hazel H. Pace, 65, Green Ridge, were treated for minor cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred as Miss Karigan was driving her car with Miss Parker east on 32nd. Driving west on 32nd were Mr. and Mrs. William R. Pace, 69, Green Ridge. Police said Miss Karigan's vehicle skidded sideways as she was trying to slow down, coming into the path of the Pace car. Pace tried to avoid a collision, police said, but his car was struck by Miss Karigan's car on the left front side.

Budget cuts may end standby draft lottery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Registration for the standby military draft and the annual draft lottery probably will be called off this year because of the budget crunch, informed sources say.

In past years the date of the annual lottery, deciding the order men would be called up if necessary, has been announced by early January, but there are no signs of it happening this year.

And it had been expected that the date for carrying out the revised system of registration would be announced by now, but President Ford has issued no proclamation setting a date, nor has he indicated he will.

Both the lottery and the registration this year would involve men who turned age 18 last year. If neither event is held they would be the first 18-year-olds not processed in any fashion since the two-year lapse of the draft law in 1947-48.

Asked about this situation, Selective Service Director Byron V. Pepitone noted that future plans are up to Ford and he refused to speculate on what the President's decision might be.

The Selective Service Act says "it shall be the duty of every male ... between the ages of 18 and 26, to present himself and to submit to registration at such time or times and place or places, and in such manner, as shall be determined by proclamation of the President ...."

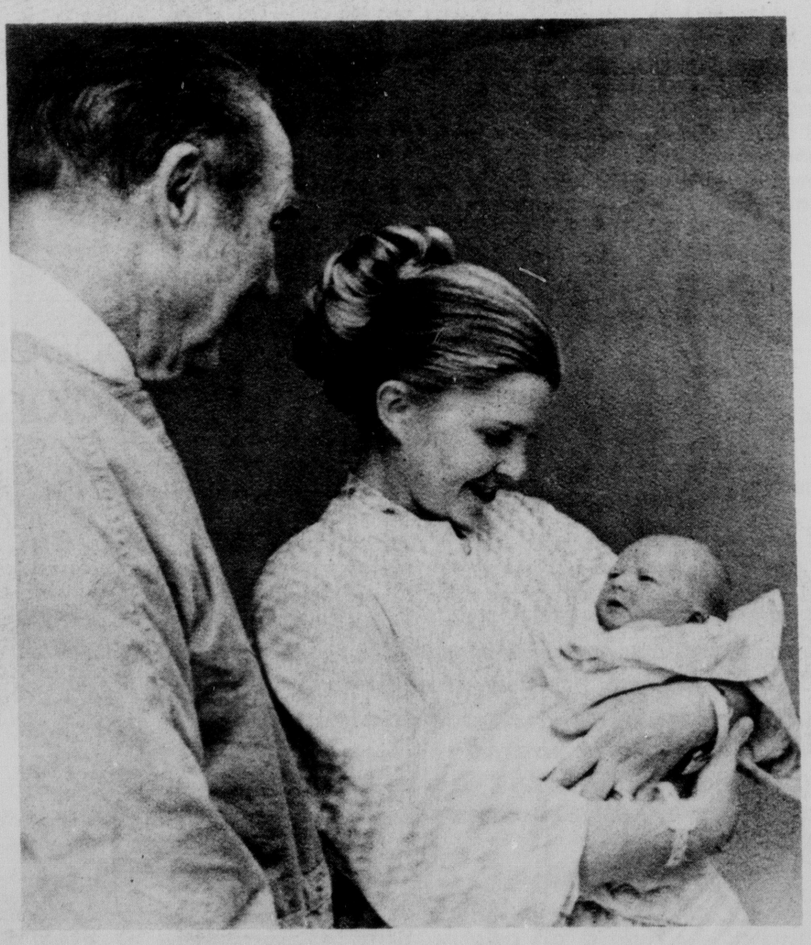

This means it is possible for registration and lotteries to be delayed for several years without any action by Congress.

Last April 1, Ford issued a proclamation saying registrations for all 18-year-olds in the future would be held during a period of one or more days after the year in which they reach 18. Some 18-year-olds already had registered in early 1975, but this was halted by the proclamation.

Complaint filed for not testing cow for disease

A complaint was filed Friday afternoon by Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming against Lyle Means, Boonville, in Magistrate Court for "failure to test cattle for brucellosis," a misdemeanor.

The unusual charge claims that Means transported on Oct. 11, 1975, a cow from Sedalia to Versailles that was over eight months old and which did not "pass a negative test for brucellosis." The cow was not tested "within 30 days prior to being transported," the complaint said.

Fleming said the maximum penalty for such an offense is up to a year in jail, a $1,000 fine or both.

Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said he would probably serve a warrant against Means Monday.

Brucellosis is a disease that can be transmitted by animals or animal products to man.

Drug case reset for April term

The case of Howard Mark Bradley, 24, Calhoun, charged with the sale of a controlled substance, was continued Friday and will be reset April 5 for the Circuit Court's April term.

Bradley, who allegedly sold marijuana for $55 on Jan. 10, 1974, in Henry County, filed a petition Dec. 31, 1975 for a change of venue from Pettis County.

The case has been in Pettis County on a change of venue from Henry County since May 20, 1974.

Bradley requested the second change of venue due to The Democrat-Capital's recent drug investigations, which he says he believes will prejudice his trial.

Question Answer

Does adoption or marriage effect the educational eligibility entitlement of war orphans?

Children of deceased veterans otherwise entitled to benefits under the Federal War Orphans and Widows' Educational Assistance Act do not lose their eligibility by subsequent adoption or by marriage. They remain "children" as far as educational benefits are concerned even if they marry. They remain "orphans" even if one parent is living or if the re-marriage of that surviving parent results in their legal adoption.

Students between the ages of 18 and 26 approved for training under this act may receive an educational grant of up to $220 per month for as long as 36 months. This amount is payable in addition to any other benefits otherwise payable from Social Security, Railroad Retirement, Federal Civil Service Disability and Indemnity Compensation.

Defense role of U.S. obstacle to Panama accord

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Panamanian officials have a suggestion on how the United States should observe its Bicentennial: start pulling out of the Canal Zone.

With the anticolonialist spirit of the American Founding Fathers in mind, Panamanian officials believe the Bicentennial is a good time for Washington to start leaving the Canal Zone.

All signs suggest, however, that despite two years of progress toward a new treaty arrangement, the United States will remain just as firmly entrenched in the zone during the Bicentennial as it has been since the zone was created more than 70 years ago.

Administration officials say it is doubtful that a draft treaty will be ready for submission to the Senate for ratification during 1976. But versions differ as to whether the negotiating process is being slowed by continuing fundamental differences between the United States and Panama, by election year political considerations, or both.

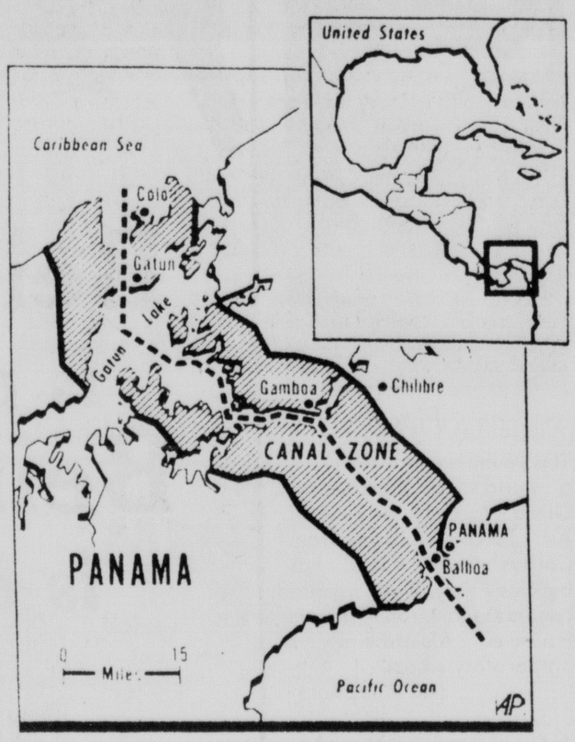

Barring unforeseen occurrences, however, the two governments are expected to agree at some point, perhaps in 1977, on a draft treaty proposal giving Panama a gradually increasing role in the operation and defense of the canal.

Within three years after the new treaty goes into effect, Panama would be given full control over all services in the zone. At present, the United States runs everything from the administration of justice to the distribution of license plates.

The new treaty would have an expiration date, around the year 2000, at which time Panama would assume full responsibility for the canal's operation.

The most important obstacles to a new accord now center on the canal's defense. Panamanian officials say the United States is insisting on an indefinite role in canal defense, a demand Panama rejects.

Another area of disagreement is whether, during the life of the new treaty, the United States will have the right to expand the canal should it wish to do so. Also unresolved is the amount of economic benefits to Panama and the size and location of the land and water areas the United States will need for the canal's operation and defense.

Rogers indicates that under the most optimistic timetable, a draft treaty won't be ready for submission to the Senate before 1977.

A case can be made for moving quickly with the negotiations. The Panamanians are weary of the American presence and top officials here believe at some point Panamanian patience will be exhausted.

And at that point, says Bunker, "some form of conflict in Panama would seem virtually certain — and it would be the kind of conflict which would be costly for all concerned."

For the past 13 years, the zone has served as the headquarters for the U.S. Southern Command, which is responsible for all American military activities in Central and South America.

Some Pentagon officials believe this is a particularly inappropriate time for the administration to be negotiating away U.S. rights in the zone. With recent Communist advances in Southeast Asia and Africa, they say, Panama is a good place for a display of American assertiveness.

Panama is also expected to intensify in 1976 its campaign to rally international public opinion against the American presence in the zone.

In the United States, about the only aspect of the canal situation on which treaty supporters and opponents agree is that the stakes are high. Each side accuses the other of courting disaster.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says "another Vietnam" will take place in Panama without a new treaty. His critics say there will be another Suez in Panama if Kissinger has his way.

About 10,000 vessels, or two-thirds of all canal traffic each year, have as their point of origin or destination, a U.S. port. There is no disagreement that closure of the canal would cause upheavals in the U.S. economy because canal users would then have to take the 8,000-mile trip around Cape Horn to reach their destination.

Closure of the canal might also affect U.S. military operations in the event of a conventional war. The canal has been used as a transit point for troops and cargo in every U.S. war since the canal opened during World War I.

The administration says the surest way to avoid a canal shutdown is a modernized treaty relationship with Panama. Officials assert that the canal, with its complex system of locks, is vulnerable to attack and that a well-placed explosive could put it out of operation.

There is an uneasy intimacy between the American-run zone and the nation it bisects, and the United States has become an increasingly reluctant tenant.

The U.S. basis for the negotiations, as outlined by the chief American negotiator, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, is that the United States "no longer can be — nor would it want to be — the only country in the world exercising extra-territoriality on the soil of another country."

But Bunker is mindful that the Senate, which must ratify any new treaty by a two-thirds margin, will reject any proposal which suggests an American giveaway of the project which has often been labeled the most ambitious engineering undertaking in the history of mankind. Estimates of the U.S. investment in the canal over the years range as high as $7 billion.

Although the Ford administration is prepared to give Panama eventual full jurisdiction over the zone, there is substantial domestic opposition to the surrender of any U.S. rights there.

Thirty-eight senators — five more than needed to defeat ratification — have signed a resolution demanding that the United States should "in no way cede, dilute, forfeit, negotiate or transfer" any of the rights it is authorized under the 1903 treaty.

That document entitles the United States to act "as if it were the sovereign of the territory" — eternally.

Even under ideal circumstances, it would be difficult for any administration to persuade 67 senators to go along with a plan to grant Panama full jurisdiction over the 533-square-mile area.

This is particularly true in an election year when patriotic themes are often stressed to the voters and legislators are more susceptible to lobbying.

Thus, some administration officials say privately that the surest way to sabotage the negotiations is to put a draft treaty before the Senate during the heat of the 1976 campaign.

The assistant secretary of State for inter-American affairs, William D. Rogers, denies there has been any foot-dragging. He says that once the broad outlines of a draft treaty are reached, lawyers will be at work for many months putting on the final touches.

Uranium rush on in Washington

WELLPINIT, Wash. (AP) — Fuel-hungry energy companies have triggered a uranium rush in an area of northeastern Washington where even the pine trees are slightly radioactive.

Major exploration efforts are probing the geological strata in a 7,843-square-mile area with core drills and sophisticated exploration techniques to find new fuel sources for nuclear reactors.

There's a scurry to tie up exploration leases in Spokane, Ferry, Pend Oreille and Stevens counties.

Geologists say there may be as much as 8 million tons of commercial uranium ore hidden in the region's varied terrain — from the low piney hills of the Huckleberry Mountains to the higher peaks of the Selkirk Range.

"I don't know if you'd call it a boom, but you can judge by the number of companies involved that there's something here," said Dr. Darwin Marjaniemi, a geologist for Bendix Field Engineering Corp.

Bendix is mapping the area's uranium deposits for the federal Energy Research and Development Administration.

The prospectors are a who's who of the giant energy corporations: Exxon, Continental Oil, Getty Oil, Reserve Oil, Burlington Northern, Inc., Westinghouse Corp. and Western Nuclear, Inc., a subsidiary of Phelps Dodge, the huge copper producer.

There are large foreign firms such as the French Pechiney Ugine Kuhlmann Development, Inc., Uranerz-U.S.A. of West Germany and smaller domestic companies, including Dawn Mining Co., Midnite Mines and Urania Explorations.

Washington's uranium probably contains less than 4 per cent of estimated domestic reserves, but mining companies say they are interested because of a tripling in the price of "yellowcake," processed uranium oxide ore.

Yellowcake, which hovered at about $8 a pound a year ago, is selling for $22 a pound, following President Ford's announced plan last June to end the federal government's monopoly on enriched uranium production. The proposal is under consideration by Congress.

There are about 50 nuclear plants operating in the United States. Seventy-six plants are under construction and 105 are in the planning stage.

Uranium deposits have made many pines radioactive.

Beef prices slightly higher

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After declining for four consecutive months, retail beef prices edged up slightly in December, according to preliminary figures by the Agriculture Department.

At the same time, consumer pork prices continued to drop because farmers received less for live hogs, according to the department.

The average price of beef sold in retail stores was slightly more than $1.52 a pound, up one-tenth of a cent on an all-cut basis from November, the department said. Retail beef prices rose to a record of $1.61 a pound last July before beginning their gradual decline.

Retail pork prices, according to USDA figurs released Friday, averaged about $1.48 a pound in December, down 3.9 per cent from $1.54 in November and 7 per cent below the October record of almost $1.59 in October.

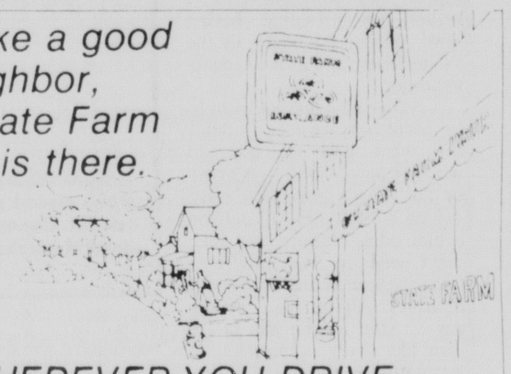

Department economists say that the increase in beef prices was expected because of rising consumer demand and the relatively high price of competing supplies of pork. Further gains may occur through the first half of 1976 because of seasonally smaller supplies of beef and rising costs for processing and marketing.

Although retail pork prices may ease further, department experts say no substantial declines are seen until after midyear when farmers are expected to increase hog production for the slaughter market.

Meanwhile, the report showed that choice-grade steers averaged $45.34 per 100 pounds of liveweight in December, up from $44.59 in November. Hogs sold for slaughter at major Midwest markets, however, dropped to $48.46 per 100 pounds from $49.74 in November.

Retail food prices over-all are expected to rise an annual rate of 4 to 5 per cent through the first half of 1976, according to USDA economists. Although final figures are not ready for 1975, food prices may have risen about 8 per cent against increases of 14.5 per cent each in 1973 and 1974.

What Price Happiness?

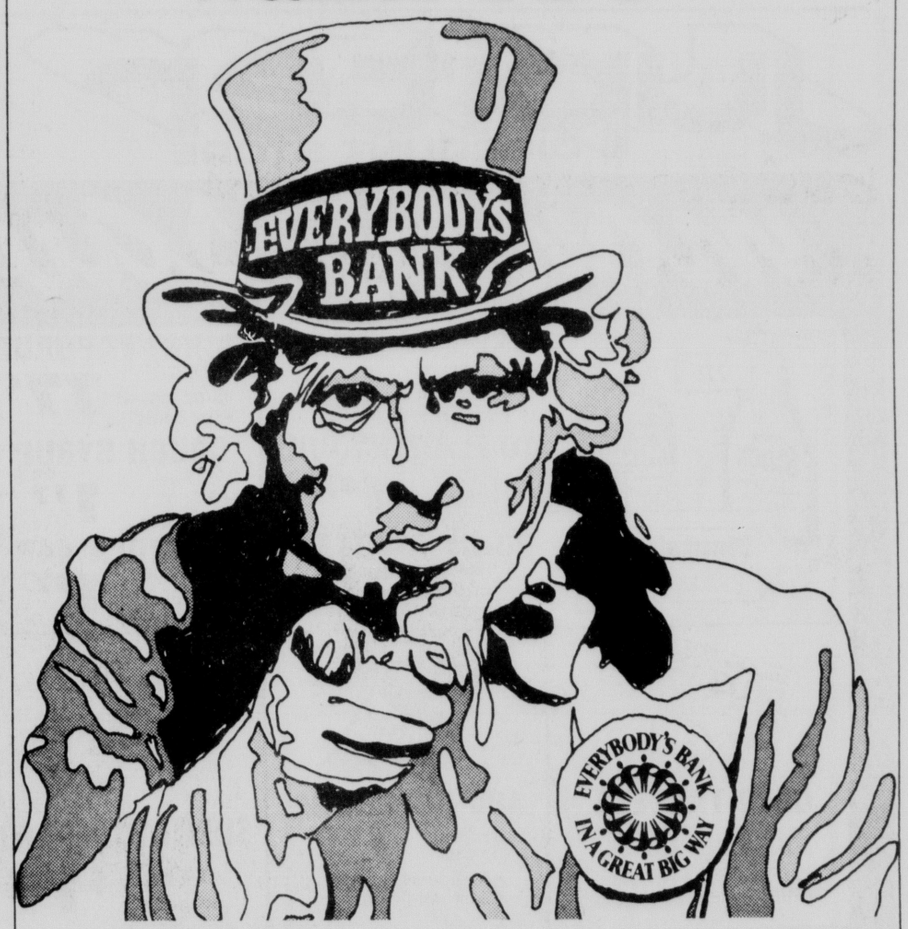

Jesus said: "What does it profit a man, if he gain the whole world but suffer the loss of his own soul? Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul? (Mark 8:36)

To save one's soul means that after this life one will be totally happy with God in Heaven. Endless bliss! Complete happiness! For such a reward, no cost would be too great - - no sacrifice too much!

If you're interested in your salvation and are not a member of a Church you can find a sure way by visiting the Pastor of your local Catholic Church or by writing to us for our free Course "The Kingdom of Jesus."

Kennedy report believed false

Only a third of The Democrat-Capital readers who responded to last week's Sound Off question said they felt that reports about the late President John F. Kennedy's so-called extra-marital activities were accurate. A total of 15 replies was received, and most of those criticized news stories concerning the reports.

The question was: "There have been reports in the news media recently about John F. Kennedy's alleged sexual escapades while he was president. Do you believe these reports are true?"

One of the few readers who did, Mrs. T. S. Cooper, 1707 West 16th, wrote, "If you believe any of the CIA secret report, then you believe all. I resent any president having lewd affairs, especially in the White House and in the Lincoln bedroom."

A reader who did not want to be identified wrote: "I don't see what good it will do whether people believe it's true or not. He is gone and can't defend himself and will only be a blot on his family, and they don't need any more of that. I think the women that told about it aren't helping their morals any ... After all, he was just a man like every other man. If temptation is thrown at them, they aren't going to resist ... I don't believe in raking up old rubbish like that. What good does it do?"

Another note said, "The question should read, 'do you think these reports should be public now?' Let him rest in peace."

A LaMonte resident wrote, "I get so disgusted how some dwell on the deaths and habits of the Kennedys. Instead of trying to dig up all that past history, why not spend more time on present government problems, especially economic problems, and make a better present and future life for us all ..."

In an opposing view, a reader who asked not to be named wrote: "I've often heard the argument that our elected officials deserve the right to have their private lives kept private. But as public servants they owe it to the public to give their full attention to their jobs, not their follies. I think all of the Kennedy 'boys' have abused the public's trust and confidence by not giving their best to the posts to which they were elected. The press all too often in the past has pampered and protected Kennedy family behavior that the public had a right to know about."

Another letter said, "No, I do not believe these stories to be true. It is very easy to say anything you want about someone who is dead and cannot protect themselves. Stories like these can be sold to magazines, newspapers can publish headlines in their papers and who is going to dispute what is said? Isn't it about time a bill was passed to protect the dead, who cannot speak in their own defense? Maybe then newspapers and magazines would not be so quick to publish stories just because someone said it was true."

Dorothy Almstead, Marshall, wrote, "There is nothing left sacred anymore. Our country, and everything we stand for, is picked to pieces. Even if President Kennedy did have a love life on the side, whose business is it? He did his job, and died while doing it. Why tear the man apart now? What good will it do? Will it make our country stronger? Will it keep food prices down, and feed the hungry? Will it give jobs to the jobless? Will it build a better nation — under God?

"How can this woman get to claim she had an affair with a man that is dead, and can't defend himself? What is she trying to cover-up? Or is she just hungry for a spotlight? Those without sin, let them throw the first stone," the letter concluded.

And finally this unsigned letter: "I am not concerned about the truth of the accusations made by the news media concerning the private and personal life of John F. Kennedy or any other American. The thing that arouses my sense of justice is the fact that the news media have resorted to the lowest type of character assassination in attacking the character of individuals that have served our country well and are not here to defend their good name. This practice has reached a dangerous point in our social system and should be criticized by every American.

"As a remedy, I suggest that every defamatory article submitted by the news media be censored by their publishers, accompanied by a certified statement of the truth of the statements and the sources of information. This information not to be made public, but retained for inspection by the accused or their families. The 'it is rumored' or 'reliable sources have provided' items should be abolished. The freedom of the press is being abused by irresponsible reporters. Wake up America! Check the reliability of these individuals and demand a higher level of news reporting," it concluded.

Sound Off

QUESTION — The Pettis County Court has set aside $4,000 in its new budget as a bounty for coyotes, saying the animals are becoming an increasing menace. It is the first time such a bounty ($2.50 for a coyote pup scalp and $5 for an adult animal) has been offered since the early 1970's, when suspected abuses and loss of state funds led the county to discontinue the system. Based on what you know, do you feel that reinstating the bounty system is justified?

$30,000 chalked up to experience

Mexican 'bandits' shatter dream

By DICK KLEINER

LOS ANGELES — (NEA) — For every Jack Smith, who lucked out and found peace and happiness with his vacation home in Mexico, as he reports in his book, "God and Mr. Gomez," there are hundreds of people who find nothing but headaches.

Including me.

There's a lesson here. And the main point, folks, is that it's best never to buy, lease or otherwise occupy a home outside the good old U.S.A. Beyond our borders, they just don't play by our rules.

I have learned that lesson. Too late. I am out somewhere around $30,000 now, because I fell for the beauty of the Baja California coastline.

Six years ago or so, we leased some land in San Antonio, about 15 miles below the border at Tijuana. And, with the help of a local contractor named Andres Zapata, we built a home. Adobe-like walls. Red Mexican tile floors. Huge stone fireplace. Modern kitchen. A gem of a weekend house.

It sat on a bluff with the ocean lapping against the empty, beautiful beach just below. About 50 yards north, a point of rugged rocks edged into the sea, and the waves crashed over it, sending sprays of foam into the air.

You couldn't find a more beautiful spot. What could be wrong with sitting on the flagstone terrace, watching the sun set behind Los Coronados Islands, lying a few miles off shore. Or sipping margaritas and smelling a steak grilling on the barbecue, as the dolphins rode the surf into the deserted beach?

Nothing's wrong with it. We spent many a weekend doing just that. We furnished the place with primitive things we had collected all over the world. Many times, between friends of ours and friends of our children, there would be a dozen people there. The house gave us a great deal of pleasure.

The only problem — and it took five years to realize it — was that the place wasn't in the U.S. It was in Mexico and, as it turned out, the Mexicans just don't have the same respect for private property that we do.

After five years of that paradise — it's only a three-hour drive from Los Angeles, even with the 55 m.p.h. speed limit, so we could easily make it for weekends — the bottom dropped out of paradise.

The government of the State of Baja California, one of that nation's 29 states, took over our area of San Antonio, to improve the roads or something. And they levied an assessment on all the Americans who had a place along that stretch of coastline, even though our original lease made no mention of any future assessments.

Anyhow, out of the blue Mexican sky came a letter from the Baja California government officials. Please come down and see them. So we drove down and Senor Santana and Senor Rivas told us, politely, that unless we forked over something more than $7,000, that would be the end of our Mexican home.

Who has a spare $7,000 these days? Not me. Certainly not after we had spent every nickel we could scrape together in getting the place to begin with.

So now the house is locked. My wife was the last one in the family to go down there. The Baja California government men took the keys away from her.

When she protested that she still had some personal possessions in the house she'd like to take away with her, the man from the government smiled and shrugged and said, "Senora, you no longer have any possessions here." So not only did we lose the house, but beds and chests and tables and couches and refrigerator and things like that, too.

Our nearest neighbor there called me a few days ago. He had peeked in our window, he said. And he told me that the beds are gone now — presumably in the home of one of the Baja California officials.

I've written to my congressman and one of my senators. Both wrote back that they would see what they could do. And then they both forwarded a long letter from a U.S. State Department official, who said, in effect, that there was nothing they could do.

I guess the problem is that my name isn't U.S. Steel or Exxon. Let one of those giants have his property overseas expropriated and we almost go to war. But for nobodies, there is nothing that can be done.

It's been a good, but expensive, lesson. All our lives, my wife and I dreamed of owning a little home by the ocean, for weekends, vacations, maybe retirement. For a few years, we had it. It's gone now.

I hope everybody will profit from this tragedy. Remember: don't buy or lease or get involved with any property outside the U.S. It can be taken away from you, and there is apparently no recourse. You're just left with the shell of a beautiful dream.

At wit's end

Talking to teens

By ERMA BOMBECK

At a luncheon last week, a woman was telling about driving in the car with her teen-ager.

"Debbied turned into a dead-end street," she explained, "and I said to her, 'Turn.' She kept going, so I raised my voice and said, 'TURN.' She sat there frozen to the wheel and when I saw a guard rail looming in front of us, I leaned over and shouted in her ear, 'TURN!!' "

She slammed on her brakes and cried, "There you go again. You're always shouting at me."

We all nodded our heads sympathetically. There wasn't one of us who didn't have varicose veins of the neck from "talking" with our teen-agers.

The reasons were varied. One woman said she shouted at her teen-age daughter because she had to compete with radios and stereos. "Everytime I said something to her she just stared back with a fixed, glazed smile, clicking her fingers. I got so mad I threatened to plug her into a faucet. Then one day I figured, if you can't beat 'em, join 'em."

"What did you do?" we asked.

"Every time she asked me a question, I'd reply with a loud phonograph record. When she opened my drawer to borrow my last pair of panty hose, I'd turn up the volume on The Beatles playing 'Let It Be.' Once, when I made her spend a Saturday helping me clean, I played 23 choruses of the Carpenters singing, 'We've Only Just Begun.' "

Another mother said she shouted because her son hums when she chews him out. "If we had a drum and a guitar, we could record," she said bitterly.

I confessed to being a shouter because I can never find my kids to face them directly in a quiet, civilized manner.

One day I shouted under the bathroom door for 45 minutes delivering a lecture on why a wet towel should not be left on the bed. (I hate to sound immodest, but it was one of my finer efforts. It included a dissertation on a mother's place in the social system, how the IRS exemption for children is comedy at its best, how gross it is to cut your toenails in the living room and the sin of leaving five empty ice cream cartons in the freezer.)

My husband finally tapped me on the shoulder and informed me my son had left the house 20 minutes before.

We all agreed the term "rapping" had lost a lot in the modern-day interpretation. Finally, a small, quiet woman said, "I think raising kids is like working in a boiler factory. You shout from habit. Besides," she said, "I know I love 'em when I shout. They know I love 'em when I shout. But how will everyone else know unless I shout?"

Task force to focus on insurance problems

JeFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — High insurance rates and hard-to-obtain policies in cities as compared with suburban areas will be the focus of a task force called for in a joint resolution in the Missouri legislature.

Sen. James F. Conway and Rep. Walter L. Meyer, both St. Louis city Democrats, introduced the resolution after both experienced problems in their areas obtaining insurance at fair rates.

The task force described in Thursday's news conference will cooperate with the Division of Insurance in the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing in the investigation.

"Insurance in the cities is in a crisis at this stage," Henry W. Edmiston, director of the Division of Insurance, said. "Our major concern will be to make sure the insurance is available and affordable."

"The territories currently used to set rates by insurance companies should be evaluated for fairness," Edmiston said.

Conway cited his experience of paying $1,000 a year for auto insurance, when people six blocks away pay $500.

Preliminary studies by the Division of Insurance show auto insurance for a sample driver and vehicle costs almost twice as much in the metropolitan St Louis area as compared with western suburbs. The Kansas City area study showed slightly less variance.

Homeowner's insurance policies are hard to obtain now on older homes in St. Louis, Conway said.

"Arson for profit incidents in St. Louis over the last several years have made it difficult to even get coverage for the market value of a house," Conway said.

Previously, insurance companies sold home policies based on replacement costs which often are significantly higher than market value.

House speaker says reform is a priority

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Missouri House speaker and the Senate president pro tem said Thursday night reform in the General Assembly is a priority item in this legislative session.

Rep. Richard J. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, and Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, spoke to a unit of the Missouri Municipal League.

"We need for the legislature to have the ability to call itself into session," said Rabbitt, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Cason, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said: "Certainly the system we have now — first come, first served — is fair. But there are so many bills of a parochial nature that aren't important to the state. So many important bills are not passed or considered by the Senate because we run out of time."

Cason is recommending the legislature meet 100 days each year at times selected by the lawmakers.

Finding games of sound

By DERECK WILLIAMSON

The Phoenix Nest
Edited by Martin Levin

For new dimensions in sound — I think that's the phrase used by the Noise Industry — you can't beat a tape recorder and a pair of walkie-talkies operated by three kids.

This Christmas, my wife and I decided to give our three small children something that would amuse them, would introduce them to the wonders of science, would them them basic methods of communication, and would not involve hitting.

The answer, we thought, was a portable cassette recorder, and a battery-operated two-way radio set. The latter is known as a walkie-talkie and has a long antenna useful. I've since learned, for knocking vases off shelves.

The children were delighted with their presents. On Christmas morning, they lost no time in mastering the fundamentals:

Walkie-talkies — Stand side by side with volume turned all the way up, and shout at each other. Never get more than six feet away from the other guy, and never lower your voice.

Tape recorder — Push the "record" button, and scream TESTING TESTING TESTING until Daddy dashes outside and bites the snow. When not recording the word "testing," record embarrassed giggling. Then rewind, and ask Mommy to listen to the recording. While listening, giggle and say, "Listen. Listen. That's me giggling!"

In no time at all, my kids knew the equipment so well that they were able to invent two sophisticated electronic games. Now they play them every day. The rules are roughly as follows:

"Walkie-Duelie" — Extend walkie-talkie antennas to full length, turn volume up, and duel back and forth across the living room. Also up and over the furniture. Hits are scored electronically. When the antennas touch, the speakers go "BLAT!"

"Tape-Talkie" — Also known as "Walkie-Recordie," the game is played with all three units. Three giggling players stand in a huddle, two holding walkie-talkies and the third manning the recorder.

Operator One yells into his walkie-talkie. The sound travels over two inches of airwaves into Operator Two's instrument, who beams his walkie-talkie speaker at the cassette recorder's built-in mike. The tape is then played back into Operator One's set, who sends the sound into the second walkie-talkie.

During all the above operations there are lots of clicks as various operators push wrong buttons. Also blats from antenna-touchings.

Now and then over the merry din can be heard the ghostly voices of real delivery men, who are operating from their trucks on the same frequency as the walkie-talkies. My kids like to identify themselves and shout instructions back to the trucks.

But their little sets aren't very powerful, and nobody can hear the children's directions to deliver oil and laundry and equipment to funny places in the neighborhood.

I think.

My lady's secret is a real fooler

By ROBERT S. ALDRICH

Amid the paper-towel problems, the kitchen-drain problems, the beard and perspiration and headache problems, there came on my tube one evening a commercial that lifted me right out of the deep hollow in the chair into which I have been slowly sinking since the set was installed.

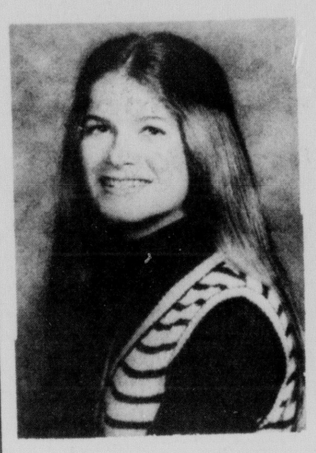

A handsome gentleman in a tux was pictured in the company of a beautiful, smiling young woman. "What is that you have on?" he inquired. But she only smiled enigmatically, her lovely eyes veiled in mystery.

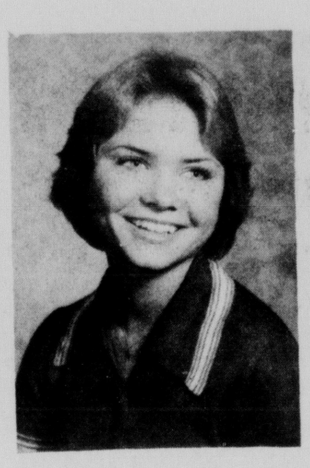

He continued his dogged pursuit, repeating his question, until, in a climax strongly reminiscent of, if not swiped from, a movie with Cary Grant and Grace Kelly, she paused in her doorway, flung her arms around his neck, and kissed him, meantime blurting the secret of her fatal charm, a scent known to her alone and available at all leading stores.

Suddenly I knew why this romantic pastiche stirred me to the depths. A similar thing happened to me once. I had been covering a food convention and had stepped into an elevator, the other occupant of which was a girl of astonishing beauty. My nostrils were assailed by a smell so provocative that I was struck dumb. Only later, turning on my lonely bed, did I think of the thousand quips that might have led to romance. All night her intriguing scent haunted my dreams.

The very next morning, I found her again. She was in a booth, turning frankfurters on a grill. I recognized the odor at once. It was sauerkraut.

Some people say TV commercials are unreal. I tell you they are life itself!

Explosion fatal for 15 workers

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — At least 15 workers died and dozens were scalded and burned in a steam boiler explosion deep inside an unfinished cargo ship being tested for its maiden sea trial.

The blast tore open a bulkhead of the boiler room and sprayed victims with 900-degree steam, searing some of them bright red, witnesses said.

"They looked like boiled crabs," a fireman said.

Officials said 12 persons were killed on the spot and dozens were rushed to hospitals, where at least three died and others were reported in critical condition.

The blast came without warning shortly after 6 p.m. Friday in the portside boiler of the Anders Maersk, a 25,000 gross ton container ship, one of six ordered from Hamburg's Blohm and Voss shipyard by the Danish shipping firm of A.P. Moeller.

About 50 persons were aboard when the boiler burst, the shipyard said. They were workers rushing to prepare the ship for its scheduled sea trial at the end of next week.

The scene in the wrecked boiler room "was frightful. I was in the war, but I've never seen anything like it before," said a shipyard official who had guided firemen onto the ship.

The victims were lowered from the ship by cranes to ambulances summoned to the shipyard pier.

Economic recovery is slow

NEW YORK (AP) — Signs appeared this past week that the economic recovery is "making haste slowly."

The nation's most persistent economic headache, inflation, appeared to be easing more convincingly. The government said its wholesale price index dropped four-tenths of a per cent in December led by lower farm prices — the first such monthly decline in six months.

The government also said retail sales shot up 3.4 per cent in December, the largest month-to-month increase since July 1973 and a strong vote of buying confidence by the American consumer.

Detroit also is sharing in the recovery. New car sales in December were up almost 33 per cent from 1974 levels, with nearly 700,000 autos sold.

Applauding these developments last week, Wall Street let loose with one of its best stock market rallies on record. The Dow Jones industrial average, the most popular yardstick of performance on the New York Stock Exchange, rose 52.42 points to close the week at 911.13, the first time the index has topped the 900-mark since early days of the Arab oil embargo in November 1973.

Investor spirits were further lifted late in the week as more than a dozen banks lowered their prime lending rates — that charged on loans to top business borrowers — by a quarter point to 7 per cent. It was another sign that investment cash was beginning to flow more freely, and cheaply.

But unemployment remained a stubborn problem and the news on that front was at best mixed. The government said the nation's unemployment rate was unchanged at 8.3 per cent in December with 7.8 million Americans unable to find work. For the full year 1975, the rate averaged 8.5 per cent.

The one bright aspect of the government report was that total employment in December rose by 230,000 to 85.5 million.

BICENTENNIAL CORNER

Observing 200 years of freedom

(This is the 17th in a series of bicentennial-related subjects written by students in the Sedalia public school system. Others will appear throughout the bicentennial period. — Ed.)

By TAMMY STEVENS

Sixth graders at Jefferson School were asked by their instructor recently what the bicentennial meant to them. Here is Tammy Stevens' reply:

It means to me that my country has been free for 200 years. It means that 200 years ago men signed the Declaration of Independence that made my country free from our Mother State, England.

When I hear about the 200th anniversary of America, I think a lot about the Boston Tea Party. The people of America were very angry because of the price they had to pay for tea. More than five men decided they were going to try to do something about it. They got some tea and stored it in the back of the store. Instead of the store manager selling the English tea, they would use the tea the Americans got. After that the men got together and decided to dress up like Indians and go aboard the ship in the harbor and dump the tea overboard. They got the men of the town together and decided to make their stand. So one night they got dressed up and went to the ship. When they got there, they captured the guards. They chopped the crates of tea open and dumped them overboard. They had done it successfully.

This part of history really means a lot to me because our heritage started here.

The "Mayflower" set sail from England on Sept. 6, 1620.

New, tight security expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special federal task force formed in the wake of last month's bombing at LaGuardia Airport in New York is expected to propose tightened security that would limit public access to coin lockers and increase baggage surveillance.

The recommendations are to be proposed to President Ford on Monday by Transportation Secretary William Coleman Jr. Despite published reports listing details of the task force study, spokesmen for the Department of Transportation declined Friday to discuss the recommendations.

The task force was hastily formed after the Dec. 29 bombing that killed 11 persons and injured 70 others at LaGuardia. The bomb was hidden in a coin-operated locker.

The task force, headed by Federal Aviation Administrator John McLucas, spent a week looking into airport security and submitted its proposals to Coleman on Friday.

Coleman told reporters last week that possible recommendations included increased patrols around coin-operated baggage lockers, a requirement that keys to those baggage lockers be kept at a central point, and periodic random checks of the lockers.

Airport officials consider coin lockers a passenger convenience. Lockers have been closed at LaGuardia since the bombing.

Other proposals reportedly considered by the task force included one that the lockers be located away from outside doors and from large expanses of plate glass windows. The task force also reportedly considered a proposal to require persons renting coin lockers to have their pictures taken.

The task force recommendations are the result of meetings with such groups as the FBI, the Customs Department, pilots unions and representatives of airport operators.

Among other recommendations which Coleman reportedly will take to Ford are one providing for increased bomb detection training for airport personnel and another suggesting more money for research and development of improved baggage surveillance devices.

Revenue from meters declines

The total amount of revenue collected by the city parking meter department, $91,681.67, is down $4,560.57 from the $96,242.24 collected in 1974, department supervisor Dave Schick reported.

Broken down, this total figure reflects $50,818.55 in street meter earnings, $23,336 in parking lot meter collections and $17,527.12 in parking fines.

Schick attributed the decrease in earnings to many factors, including the temporary loss of a meter reader. The position was eliminated in July by the City Council in a budget-cut move, but was later restored in September when federal funds to pay for the position became available.

"This helped to cause a decline in tickets issued," Schick said. "We feel that our revenue decreases every time we have to break in a new man. The people do not feed the meters when they don't see a meter man."

Another rehearsal to be held Monday

Rehearsals will resume Monday night for the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra, in preparation for its next concert, March 1.

An all-orchestral bicentennial program of American music will be presented at that time, according to conductor Abe Rosenthal.

Marriage rate almost identical

In a near-coincidence, the number of marriage licenses issued in Pettis County in 1975, 436, was just one over the number issued in 1974 (435), according to figures released by Recorder of Deeds Mrs. Naomi Brown.

June, when 61 permits were issued, and August, which recorded 55, were the two most popular months for marriages, the records showed. This was also the case in 1974, but the figures were smaller in both cases.

The divorce rate, however, declined, with 179 divorces granted in 1975 as compared to 182 in 1974.

Also declining in 1975 were the number of babies born at Bothwell Hospital. During the past year, 611 births were registered, which is 25 below the 1974 total of 636.

Ella not 'Lonely in Windsor Locks'

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Gov. Ella Grasso says she invited Ann Landers to dinner next Tuesday because the advice columnist is a friend with whom she "has carried on a long correspondence."

That brought chuckles from reporters at a news conference Thursday who asked Gov. Grasso how she signed her letters to the writer who dispenses marital and etiquette advice.

"Not 'Lonely in Windsor Locks,'" she replied, referring to her hometown.

Panel member to retain post

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Cozetta Thompson was highly recommended when she was appointed to the Missouri Human Rights Commission and she will remain a member of the group, says Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

But the governor, reacting to complaints about Mrs. Thompson and the commission, has asked the International Association of Human Rights Organizations to review the operations of the commission and recommend "how it can best meet its important responsibilities."

The Joplin chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had asked Bond to remove Mrs. Thompson, claiming she had disassociated herself from the problems of blacks in Joplin.

Bond issued his response in a letter received Thursday by Duncan Brown, president of the Joplin NAACP.

Mrs. Thompson, also a member of the Joplin Board of Education, was appointed to the Human Rights Commission last April for a term that expires in March.

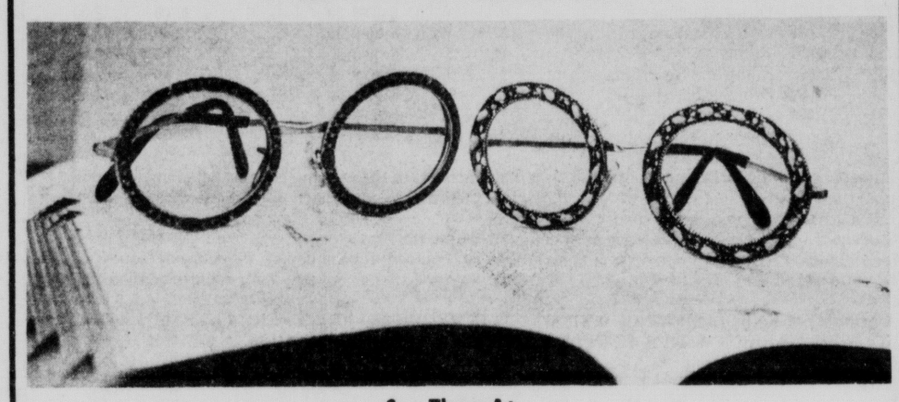

The Joplin NAACP sent a letter to Bond Dec. 22, charging that Mrs. Thompson did not possess "the understanding, compassion, patience or interest to serve as an effective representative."

Past A.M.A. head applauds efforts

Dear Ann Landers: I was overjoyed that both you and "Once Was Enough For Me" had the sensitivity and wisdom to address yourselves to a problem too often shoved under the rug because it is considered "indelicate." I am talking about V.D.

"Once's" suggestion that your answers might help thousands of young people was a gross understatement. You can help MILLIONS of people in a way that can change their lives. In a free society, knowledge is the one weapon that can eliminate V.D. We must acknowledge honestly and openly the following facts:

The problem is enormous. Over three million people become infected every year.

V.D. doesn't care who has it. It can happen to anybody. Even some very "respectable people" get it — and pass it on.

V.D. can be prevented.

V.D. must receive prompt medical attention. It will not disappear unless it is treated.

Silence, fear and guilt are no longer warranted. The knowledge gained from medical research holds the promise of the eventual eradication of V.D. Work is currently underway to find better tests, better treatment and better vaccines.

I urge every concerned citizen to get involved in the fight. The American Social Health Organization at 1740 Broadway, New York, N.Y., 10019, is a non-profit group that needs broad support in terms of volunteers and money to continue educational programs and medical research.

Please, Ann Landers, put another nail in the coffin of V.D. by printing this letter. — Charles A. Hoffman, M.D. (Past President of A.M.A.)

Dear Dr. Hoffman: Here's another nail, with an added word from me — at the risk of boring my readers to death. I've said it so often, but I'll say it again.

Anyone who suspects that he (or she) may have V.D. should go at once to the emergency room of any hospital, to the county or city health department, or to a doctor, and be tested. It takes only a few minutes. If you are a minor, your parents will not be notified. Most places will test you free or charge very little. You will learn promptly whether or not you are infected. If you are, you can usually be cured simply with medication. If you aren't — what a relief to know you have nothing to worry about.

Any reader who wants to put his own nail in that coffin, and can spare the time or money, please write to the American Social Health Organization, as Dr. Hoffman suggested. They will be delighted to hear from you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 16, who has been asked to pose nude for a boy who is a wonderful artist. He is 17. Rick has shown me some of his paintings which are terrific and I mean terrific.

What bothers me is whether or not I should do it. Rick tells me the human body is beautiful, nothing to be ashamed of, and that I have a hang-up. He says I should be proud he picked me out as a model.

I don't know what to do, Ann. He has been pressuring me a lot lately. What's your opinion? — A Big Maybe

Dear Maybe: If Rick is such a terrific artist, he should be able to sell some of his paintings and hire a professional model. Keep your clothes on, girl.

Couple together 61 years

LaMONTE — Sixty-one years of happiness were celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Gussie Whittall on Christmas Day with family and friends at their home here.

Mr. Whittall and the former Pearl Davis were married Dec. 31, 1914, at Warrensburg. Mr. Whittall, 80, and Mrs. Whittall, 79, grew up in the Windsor community and after they were married, moved to a farm south of Sweet Springs in 1926. When they retired five years ago, they built a new home here where they now reside.

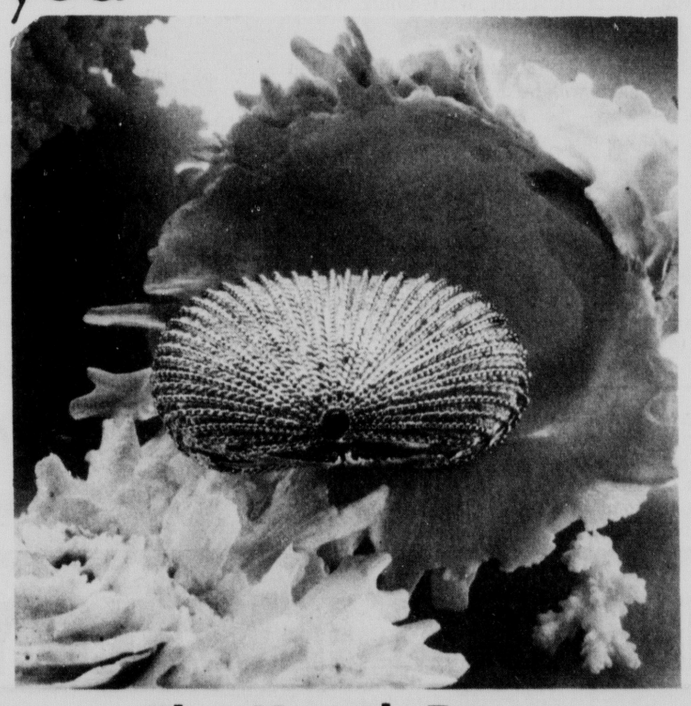

Their many years of marital happiness "just happened," according to Mr. Whittall, who smiled and shrugged his shoulders.

They are active members of Blackwater Chapel Methodist Church, LaMonte Golden Agers Club and love to fish, garden and grow flowers. They have won the Missouri Community Betterment Award for the Yard of the Month several times since living here.

Three children were born from the marriage: Junior Whittall, who died in 1941; Perry Whittall, San Bernardino, Calif.; and Mrs. Ray (Dorothy) Wallhausen, Sweet Springs. They also have two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The first flower catalog

It was a typical winter day
That could get worse I knew,
The kind when the house stayed cold
It seemed the wind came through,
With January just begun
More days like this we'll see,
More freezing rain, more snow, more cold,
More winter there will be.
The temperature kept going down
To hit a winter low,
Cold winds were blowing,
The prediction was for snow
The gas bill had just arrived
It hit a winter high,
The sun, that came out for a while,
Hid behind clouds in the sky,

And then on this cold bleak day
What did the postman bring?
The very first flower catalog
To make me think of spring.
With many colored pages
Of bright and lovely flowers.

The roses of every kind
I ponder o'er for hours,
The daisies and the columbine,

The phlox and carnations
And once again I smile a bit
At God's great creations,
The cold and freezing weather
That cut the flowers down
To leave the garden dreary
With flower stalks limp and brown,
Flower catalogs come at a time
When blustery winds blow
And our spirits, like the temperature,
Are getting a bit low,
But January's going fast
And before we know it, too,
The little flowers beneath the soil
Will start now coming through,
So I look at the catalog
With all its flowers bright
And dream about the flowers
That will be such a delight.
I do not think of weeds and bugs
Of those annoying things,
I simply dream of beauty
That springtime always brings,
For I'm a lazy gardener,
I simply do not spray
And I do my weeding
Only when I feel that way,
I do not trim my shrubbery,
Some of it I just can't,
The flowers that can take it
Are the only ones I plant,
And if they seem unhappy
Or I think that they look wrong
Where they are I just dig them up
And set them where they belong.
Yes, I do a lot of dreaming
When the temperature is low
'Cause when catalogs start coming
Spring is coming, too, I know.

Wear glasses?

It's true that too much make-up is worse than too little. But the woman who wears glasses can apply more eyeshadow and thicker liner because the color is lost to a great extent through light reflecting off the glasses.

Butter labeled "sweet cream" is usually lightly salted; butter labeled "sweet" has no salt added.

Sandal etiquette

Strappy sandals on high, thin heels go equally well with dressy pants or a long skirt or dress.

Economic progress achieved by SADC

The Sedalia Area Development Corp. (SADC), which was set up last July, has proved in a relatively short period of time to be an effective tool for promoting local industrial development.

Gov. Christopher Bond was in town Thursday to help Economic Development Director John Hequembourg announce the acquisition of a new industry for Sedalia—the Centralia Container Corp. It will be the first plant to occupy the new 100-acre Sedalia industrial park north of the city, being developed by the SADC.

The Centralia firm, which manufactures corrugated containers, hopes to be in operation early this summer with a work force of about 25 employes. It anticipates building to 75 employes in coming years.

It was the second industrial acquisition directly related to the SADC's efforts. The recent McGraw-Edison warehouse project was also financed by this method, with federal loan guarantees coming in later.

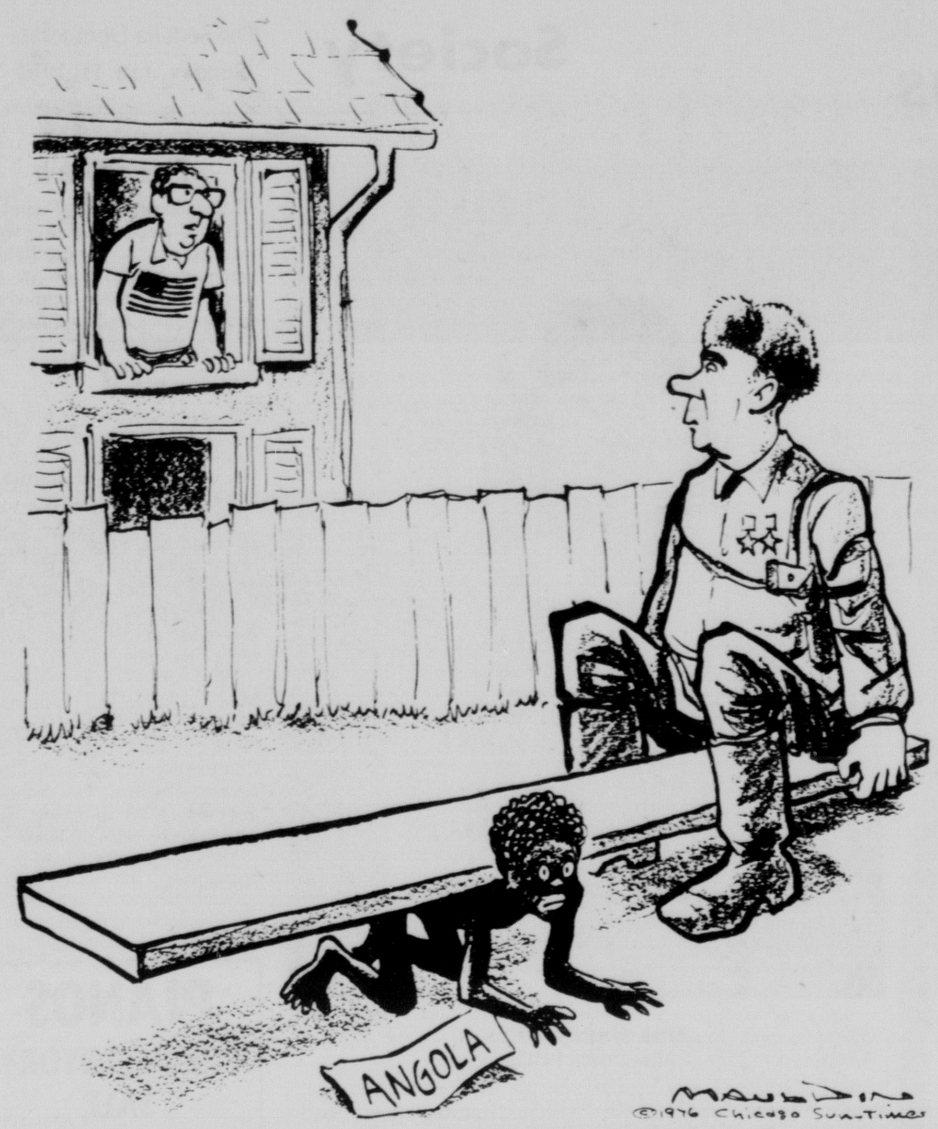

The Sedalia industrial park project promises to be one of the most important steps toward firing up the local economy. The not-for-profit SADC is putting up about $154,000 for land purchase, and the city hopes to tap federal grants to the tune of about $125,000 for the costs of installing sewer lines and putting in roads. The city itself will make its donation in the form of water lines.

It was recently announced that a six-member Board of Control will oversee the operation of the industrial park, the membership of which will be split evenly between city officials and SADC members. This sounds like a logical and workable arrangement.

The members of the SADC, including the several local financial institutions that have put up the money for projects to date, deserve a vote of thanks from Sedalians. They stepped into the breach and took the initiative when normal avenues of industrial expansion did not prove fruitful.

In his remarks in Sedalia Thursday, Gov. Bond on more than one occasion commended the local spirit and effort that paid off in job-creating plant acquisitions for Sedalia. He called this attitude the single most important factor in improving the industrial base of any community, as indeed it is.

We will be looking forward to more good news for Sedalia as the SADC continues to work on behalf of our city's economic interests.

Hoover had files on presidents too

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — We have established beyond reasonable doubt that the late J. Edgar Hoover kept blackmail files on prominent people, including Presidents John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon.

These raw files contained gleanings from FBI offices around the country. Hoover's minions, knowing he liked derogatory information about people in power, kept him well supplied.

His agents spent a great deal of time, for example, observing and reporting on the sexual adventures of celebrities. The choice tidbits, ranging from pure gossip to vicious slander, were swept into fattening folders.

The late FBI chief kept the most sensitive folders in his personal custody. They were removed after his death, according to our sources, by his faithful factotum, Clyde Tolson.

These files could have had no possible purpose except blackmail. Their existence is disturbing evidence that Hoover had turned the FBI into a political police force whose snooping practices had become all too similar to those of Adolf Hitler's Gestapo and Joseph Stalin's KGB.

Hoover was not an overt blackmailer. His power depended for half a century on the good will of the nation's elected leaders, whose favor he curried. He, therefore, posed as their friend who wanted only to protect them from the whispers their enemies might spread.

By this approach, he made them aware subtly that he, too, knew their secrets. Inevitably, the word filtered through Washington that Hoover had a dossier on every influential figure in town.

This whsipered word had the effect of blackmail, without Hoover having to resort to the ugly practice. There were few important personages in Washington who didn't wonder nervously how much the FBI chief knew about them.

We spoke to former aides, for example, of every president since Franklin D. Roosevelt. Without exception, even the presidents themselves were convinced that Hoover had files on them.

The reaction of the late John F. Kennedy was typical. He was reviewing some FBI reports in the Oval office one day. Suddenly, he looked up from his reading and remarked to an assistant: "I'd sure like to see the file the FBI has on me."

Hoover also used gossip from his files to entertain a few key figures, whose support he sought to cultivate. In his private conversations with them, he might drop some intimate details about their contemporaries. Or if those he courted showed an interest, he might furnish them with actual samplings from the files.

President Truman made it clear, with appropriate profanity, that he had no interest in the FBI's turgid prose, his former aides recall. President Eisenhower, on the other hand, got an occasional chuckle from his FBI reading, a former associate admits.

President Kennedy's ex-aides insist that he didn't care to read about the sex lives and drinking habits of the high and mighty. But Washington Post editor Benjamin C. Bradlee, a close personal friend of the late president, has quoted Kennedy as telling him: "Boy, the dirt (Hoover) has on those senators. You wouldn't believe it."

According to Bradlee, Hoover once brought Kennedy a picture of a prostitute who was cavorting on Capitol Hill. This was hardly a matter of great national gravity.

President Johnson was an avid reader of Hoover's titillating tidbits, which were submitted to the White House in secret memos for his bedtime reading. Johnson had a fine appreciation, his erstwhile aides agree, for a story about some big muckamuck's extracurricular love life.

Sources close to President Nixon tell us that he sometimes asked Hoover for derogatory details about his enemies. On at least one occasion, he personally phoned Hoover and solicited dirt about us from FBI files.

The tapes of Nixon's private White House conversations also indicate he appreciated Hoover's potential for blackmail. "He's got files on everybody, damn it," Nixon once remarked admiringly. This was followed on the tape by an appreciative laugh from aide John Dean.

The truth is now out. Hoover's agents followed the affairs, sexual and political, of the nation's leaders. The FBI also spied on other famous personalities who had committed no crimes. This was an abuse of power that should be outlawed by Congress.

MOBIL'S JAWS: In an advertisement appropriately titled "Jaws," Mobil Oil's business sharks charged we had "jawed" them by listing the company's profits at $3.6 billion.

Mobil caught us in a clerical error, which we are happy to correct. We mistakenly called the $3.6 billion "profits" instead of "income." But the point of our report is still the same: Mobil paid only 1.6 per cent in federal taxes on this whopping $3.6 billion income.

The 1.6 per centage figure comes from a tax study released by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash. Since tax studies differ, we checked other studies. The most favorable one for Mobil, conducted by the respected Tax Analysts and Advocates, gave the company the benefit of a 3.6 percentage rate. The difference is hardly enough to brag about.

The oil barons contend these tax studies don't reflect the "taxes" they pay to foreign governments, for which they receive credit from the U. S. Treasury. But virtually every tax expert agrees that these foreign payment aren't really taxes but royalties paid for the right to pump oil.

Breaking the IRS tax code

WASHINGTON — Deep in the bowels of the Internal Revenue Service building is a large steel door with a sign outside of it which says "Restricted Area — Authorized Personnel Only."

Buchwald

Two armed guards are stationed in front of it and everyone who goes in and out is checked twice. This special bureau called FITF is in charge of devising Federal Income Tax Forms that no one can understand. A staff of cryptographers and code experts work day and night to devise new methods of foxing the taxpayer so he will be unable to fill out his 1040 Form.

Last May an IRS agent in the Minneapolis office started to go over the 1974 return of a soybean farmer in Duluth when he sat up with a start. The form had been filled out by the farmer himself and there were no mistakes.

He immediately picked up his phone and called the director of FITF.

"Sir," the agent said, "I think someone has broken our 1040 code. I have a soybean farmer in Duluth who filled out his tax return without the aid of an accountant or a tax lawyer."

"Are you sure it just wasn't an accident?" the director said.

"Certain, sir. He was even able to fill out Part III 16 B which refers to Section D lines 12 (a) and 14 (c) by combining the amounts shown on line 5 and 13."

"Oh my God," the director said. "did he get Part V Question 40 by reducing his gain on line 18 to the extent of the loss, if any, on line 39, as referred to in Instruction K?"

"Perfectly, sir. It's as if he had our code book in front of him while he was filling out the form."

"I'll notify the commissioner and secretary of the treasury at once." The director hung up and picked up his red hot-line phone.

An hour later a group of grim-faced people were sitting in the office of the secretary of the treasury who was pacing up and down. "How did it happen?" he shouted at the commissioner of internal revenue. "You promised me that no one would be able to make head or tail of the 1974 return."

The commissioner looked angrily at the director of FITF. "What happened, Mulligan?"

"I don't know," said Mulligan. "Maybe the soybean farmer is some kind of mathematical nut. We tried the 1974 form out on 10,000 people, including 1,000 IRS agents, and not one of them understood it. It seemed foolproof."

The secretary of the treasury walked over to his window. "Do you know what this means? If a soybean farmer in Duluth has the key to our 1040 returns that means other people will soon have it. We'll have millions of people filling out their own income tax forms. It could destroy every tax law and accounting office in the country."

The commissioner said, "It looks like we have no choice. We're going to have to change the 1040 Form and make it so complicated that even H & R Block won't understand it. Can you do it, Mulligan?"

"Yes, sir," Mulligan replied. "But I'll need more people."

"Take anyone you want," the secretary of the treasury said. "This has highest priority. The very fabric of the American tax system is at stake. I want daily reports on your progress. I want that form to look like the greatest bunch of gobbledygook anyone has ever read."

The commissioner said, "We'll do it, sir. By the time the new returns are sent out there won't be five people in the country who will know how to fill it out."

"Not five people!" the secretary said. "I don't want anybody to understand it, including myself."

Mulligan replied, "Don't worry, Mr. Secretary. When my people get finished with it the American taxpayer won't even be able to find the right line for his name and address."

The rest is history. As everyone who received his 1040 Tax Form for 1975 knows, FITF came up with a return that defies imagination. The secretary was so pleased he presented Mulligan with the "U. S. Medal of Bureaucratic Balderdash with an Oak Leaf Cluster," the highest award the tax agency can bestow on an IRS employe in peacetime.

War to stamp out flapdoodle

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The Unicorn Hunters held their annual meeting the other day in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., where they put the curse upon meaningful, input, dialogue, scenario, and detente. Such a target list could be much extended, but these will do for starters.

Kilpatrick

Based at Lake Superior State College, the Unicorn Hunters have embarked upon a task that only some mythical being might achieve. They are out to purge the language of its flapdoodle words. Hercules had an easier task when he hosed down the Augean stables.

Man and boy, I have been waging my own modest war upon flapdoodle for 35 years. Such masters of artillery as Ed Newman have weighed in with their heavy guns. Sydney Harris of the Chicago Daily News, Ed Yoder of the Washington Star, Meg Greenfield of the Washington Post — all these fight bravely in the continuing defense of the mother tongue. Countless other captains of syntax struggle with equal devotion. None of us is getting anywhere.

The Unicorn Hunters claim a victory in the matter of "at this point in time," which they cursed a year ago. If so, it is a small triumph in a vast war. The masters of flapdoodle, entrenched in their misty swamps, never tire and never quit. From a base camp here in Washington, they go abroad in locust hordes, feeding upon the verdant fields of language.

The State Department announced a couple of weeks ago that it was hiring a consumer affairs coordinator. The department operates from a part of the city known as Foggy Bottom. The name is well chosen.

According to the official announcement, the department's purpose in creating this important position is twofold. It is "to confirm and reinforce the Department's sensitivity to consumer rights and interests as they impact upon the Department and to take those steps necessary and feasible to promote and channel these rights and interests with respect to the maintenance and expansion of an international dialogue and awareness.

Toward these goals, the consumer affairs coordinator "will review existing mechanisms of consumer input, thruput, and output, and seek ways of improving these linkages via the consumer communication channel."

The Washington Post, gazing with stunned admiration upon this announcement, concluded that the whole thing is an onput: The job itself, paying $37,800, might also be termed an up-put. As for the author, a downput is too merciful.

What is the true purpose of this flapdoodle? It is to conceal the self-evident fact that the State Department is handing a posh job to Mrs. Joan Braden, wife of columnist Tom Braden, dear friends of the Hon. Henry. Mrs. B. is a woman of great charm and competence, the mother of a whole platoon of attractive children, and doubtless she is a solid choice for this gauzy position. If it weren't for the fatuous job description, her appointment might have gone unnoticed.

Fatuity is the order of the day in Washington. For some months, in a futile effort to shame the bureaucrats into writing understandable prose, the Washington Star has been publishing a daily example of gobbledegook. An entirely typical specimen came recently from the commandant of the Marine Corps:

"It has been decisioned," said the commandant, "that some form of unit rotation may be a desirable objective ... Recent CMC decisions have alleviated the major inhibitors allowing a fresh approach and revaluation of alternative methods of unit replacement ..."

And so on. This will be at least the second year the Unicorn Hunters have put the curse on meaningful. They might as well give up on this one. More promising targets can be found in scenario and dialogue, especially in the kind of dialogue in which 10 persons engage. In good time, perhaps the Hunters will get around to linkages in channels and to other mechanisms of thruput. We can only hope that the implementation of these consonantal objectives will soon be decisioned.

Among the seven resolutions he proposed in his speech, the last one claimed that Virginia enjoyed complete legislative autonomy. # Pat Fiene pours in 42 in S-C OT win

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

More than two hours, 53 fouls and 71 free throws attempts later, Smith-Cotton basketball coach David Porter was able to breathe a little easier.

"When was the last time you saw a game with that many fouls called," said Porter smiling after Friday night's 63-62 overtime victory over Hannibal that evened the Tigers' Central Missouri Conference record at 1-1.

Memory failed this writer as to the exact time when that foul-plagued event might have been. But one thing is for sure, no Smith-Cotton player has as many points at 6-4 senior forward Pat Fiene did in a long time.

Fiene, one of only four scorers for the Tigers in the game, poured in 42 points, most of which came from the top of the key and the wings. That's the most points scored since Kim Anderson tossed in the same number of points in the 1971-72 season against Jefferson City.

The total by Fiene is only three short of the all-time record set in 1956 by Charles "Van" Van Dyne.

The victory was of the come-from-behind variety. With just over two and one-half minutes to play in the first period, the Tigers, now 2-5 overall, found themselves trailing, 14-2.

"That's coming from a long ways back," said Porter.

But by half time, the Tigers trailed by only one. And at the point, the Fiene shooting display had netted 22 of the Tigers 32 points. Twin brother Pete had six of the remaining 10, while senior guard "Petey" Cline had the other four.

In the second half, only one other Tiger broke into the scoring column — Doug Slagel, who wound up with a total of three points.

"It isn't very good balance, but we won the game and that's what really counts," said Porter.

The Tigers didn't lead in the game until 29 seconds were left on the third-quarter clock. At that point, Cline, who scored 10 points for the Tigers, hit one in close, putting S-C in front, 44-43.

Smith-Cotton took a 46-45 lead into the final quarter, but found themselves on the short end of a 53-50 count when Hannibal's Mike Moore scored a free throw with 2:35 to go in regulation.

Two charity shots and a field goal off a steal by Pat Fiene, put the Tigers ahead by one, but Greg Hackamack found the range on a free throw to tie it at 54-all with 1:24 left.

Smith-Cotton called time out and went into a stall. They worked the clock down to nine seconds, before Jamie Brown of Hannibal reached in and forced a jump ball with Jim Schroeder.

Hannibal got the tip and Randy Garner headed down the lane for a layup that went in but was ruled no good when he was whistled for charging. It was Garner's fifth foul, but in the confusion he didn't go to the bench and stayed in the game. The clock ran out, but the officials were advised of their mistake and two seconds were put back on the clock.

Smith-Cotton couldn't get the ball down and the game, just like the sophomore opener, went into overtime.

Pat Fiene again took command and Slagel got his three points down from the line to pull the Tigers into the victory column.

The foul-marred contest saw seven players — three from Smith-Cotton — retire to the bench via fouls.

The Tigers used three centers, Skip McGuire, Daryl Schnakenberg and Joe Fischer. They all fouled out without entering the scoring column.

"What can I say," said Porter after the game. "I guess some of them are like this."

The sophomore game, which was salvaged by the Pirates, also went into overtime, 56-53.

The Tigers had a chance to win it at the buzzer in regulation, but a shot in close by David Braverman rimmed and fell off.

Alvin Hood sank two free throws for the Bucs with 39 seconds to go in the overtime and iced the three-point win for Hannibal.

Three Smith-Cotton players reached double figures. Dallas Smith led the way with 15, while Braverman added 12 and James Smith 10.

Scoring

Smith-Cotton (63) — Pat Fiene 42, Pete Fiene 8, "Petey" Cline 10, Doug Slagel 3.
Hannibal (62) — Bob Boone 7, Jamie Brown 11, Gregg Nesbitt 10, Brad Fohey 4, Randy Garner 10, Kent Hackamack 11, Mike Moore 5, Jim Lankford 4.

Key tipoff

Hannibal's Jamie Brown (21) and Jim Schroeder (10) of Smith-Cotton tipoff with only nine seconds left in regulation time in Friday night's Central Missouri Conference game in Sedalia. Brown tied up the ball when Schroeder and the Tigers were trying to work the clock down for one last shot with the score tied, 54-all. # Bengal tankers score first victory of year

Smith-Cotton swept first and second in every event with exception of the 100-meter backstroke at the Sedalia Junior High School pool in a 71-12 boys swimming rout over Kansas City Manual Friday.

It was the first dual win of the season for the Tigers, who traveled to Columbia Hickman for a double-dual Wednesday with the Kewpies and Missouri Military Academy of Mexico.

"I was really, really pleased," said Smith-Cotton tanker's coach Earl Cooper after the victory.

"I used a little strategy in placing some of the swimmers in different events. It worked out and showed me that we have some swimmers who can adpt to different events than they normally swim," Cooper added.

Jim Paul came up with two first place finishes in the 100 and 200 freestyle events. Dennis Paul also recorded two first (200 individual medley and 100 fly).

Alan Braverman also scored a pair of firsts in the 50 and 500 freestyle events.

Tar Heels out shoot Virginia's defense

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — The outside shooting of Phil Ford and John Kuester late in the first half cracked Virginia's zone defense and sixth-ranked North Carolina hung on Saturday for an 85-82 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory over the Cavaliers.

The Tar Heels, ahead eight points at the half on the strength of an eight-point run in the last 2½ minutes, built a 12-point margin with less than five minutes left in the regionally televised game, only to see the Cavaliers rally behind Wally Walker, who had 34 points.

But North Carolina, now 2-0 in the ACC and 10-1 over-all, held off the Virginia comeback on deadly free throw accuracy down the stretch by Ford and Walter Davis and spoiled a second straight upset bid by the Cavaliers, who beat seventhranked Wake Forest Wednesday night.

Ford finished with 27 points, including nine of 13 at the foul line, and Davis had 18 points, including 10 straight free throws.

Alabama comes back

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Tenth-ranked Alabama erased an 11-point halftime deficit Saturday and trimmed Auburn 63-62 in a Southeastern Conference basketball game, as Auburn's Mike Mitchell missed a gametying free throw with only five seconds remaining.

Leon Douglas and freshman Reginald King poured in eight points each to lead an Alabama surge at the start of the second half, which obliterated a 38-27 deficit, and gave the Tide a 56-46 advantage with 8:15 left in the game.

But, the War Eagles came battling back as Mitchell scored seven points and Gary Redding added five.

With Alabama leading 63-60, Mitchell rebounded an errant shot and made the final basket with five seconds left and was fouled. But he failed to convert the three-point play that could have sent the game into overtime.

The defeat was Auburn's first at home in 15 games, dating back to a 1974 setback by Mississippi State.

The victory, fourth in a row for the Tide, gave Alabama a 30 SEC and 10-1 season record. Auburn fell to 2-1 in the league and 6-4 over-all.

Tigers lose heartbreaker to Raytown South, 53-51

Smith-Cotton's bid for one of the state's biggest Class 4A upsets to date in the basketball season came up short, but only by two points.

The Tigers, who rallied from a 12-point deficit and went on to pull out a one-point overtime win Friday over Hannibal Friday night, gave Raytown South a monumental scare last night, but lost 53-51.

Raytown South, rated second in a Kansas City newspaper prep poll and fourth in the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters poll, came from behind to keep their record unblemished at 10-0.

Last night's two-point victory for the Cardinals came on the heels of a 50-47 win Friday nignt over Winnetonka.

"We played just super ... absolutely super," praised head coach David Porter of the Tigers.

"If we could play with that much intensity all of the time, we could hold our own with almost anyone in the state," he added.

Except for five turnovers in the early minutes of the third quarter, few could find fault with the Tigers' play in the loss.

Ray-South, which trailed by eight points twice in the first half, came out with a tough press after the half.

In the first three minutes and 43 seconds of the third quarter, the Cardinals made up a 24-18 half time deficit and grabbed a 27-25 lead when the Tigers had their only poor-playing spell of the game.

S-C managed to tie the game and trailed by only two, 37-35, as the fourth period opened.

A field goal by Skip McGuire, who had one ofhis best games of the season, pulled the Tigers ahead with 4:09 to go. That was the last lead the Tigers were to enjoy, as the Cardinals scored eight of their last 10 points from the free throw line. Mark McIntosh hit five of six from the line in the last 41 seconds to keep the Cards' undefeated string going.

Pat Fiene, who scored 42 points in Friday's win, again led the Tigers with 19 points. McGuire followed with 13. Kevin Fromm led Ray-South with 17.

In the junior varsity opener, Ray-South nearly doubled the count on the Tigers bombing them, 70-36.

The Cardinals led 43-14 at the half and 59-20 as the teams took the floor for the last quarter.

Ten Ray-South players scored in the jayvee rout.

Scoring

Raytown South (53) — Graham 3, McIntosh 11, Lathrop 4, Fromm 17, Roach 2, Fennelley 7, Frevert 9.
Smith-Cotton (51) — Slagel 5, Cline 4, McGuire 13, Pete Fiene 10, Pat Fiene 19.

Oregon State upsets UCLA

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State's Lonnie Shelton scored 20 points as the Beavers overpowered the third-ranked UCLA Bruins 75-58 Saturday in a Pacific-8 Conference basketball game.

Oregon State now is 2-0 in the conference after dumping No. 18 Southern Cal 80-70 Thursday night in Corvallis.

The Beavers took an 8-7 lead after 2½ minutes and never trailed.

Shelton sat out 13 minutes of the first half with three fouls but played the entire second half. Guard George Tucker added 11 points while directing a patient Oregon State offense.

Richard Washington, UCLA's All-American junior forward from Portland, Ore., topped all scorers with 21 points. Guard Andre McCarter scored 15 for the Bruins, now 1-1 in the Pac8.

Stover wins battle of loop undefeateds in Kaysinger

By RON HIGGINS
Staff Sports Writer

STOVER — To the delight of a large homecoming crowd, Stover defeated Smithton, 86-58, here Friday night in a slugfest for the top spot in the Kaysinger Conference.

Entering the game, both teams had gone undefeated in league play, with Smithton holding a slim half-game edge over the Bulldogs. Smithton was 4-0 while Stover held a 3-0 conference record.

After both teams exchanged buckets early in the dual, a hard battle ensued.

Midway through the opening quarter, Smithton appeared to have come well prepared for the match, pulling ahead of the Bulldogs 12-8.

Tom Dale sank a half court shot at the buzzer to pull the Stover team within two, 16-14, at the end of the period.

This last-second effort ignited Dale and his teammates.

After controlling the tip to start the second quarter, Dale again scored and made the effort a three-point play following a foul. The Bulldogs went on to score seven points in succession and take a 23-16 lead early in the quarter.

The Bulldogs then padded their lead to ten points in the final two minutes of the first half and they held that margin, 33-23, at the half.

Mike Ringen charged the Bulldog offense in the latter half of the quarter with his impressive outside shooting. Ringen, accompanied by Greg Siegel of Smithton, scored 24 points apiece to capture game honors.

Ringen's play pushed the Stover lead to 57-39 at the start of the final and decisive quarter.

In that period, the Bulldogs handily mastered the Tigers to win the contest.

"It feels good," commented winning coach Terry Pummill. Pummill said he stressed a few things to his team before the match, such as good ball movement and rebounding. "I was worried about our rebounding," he said, "But I thought we hit the boards real well," he praised.

Pummill was equally pleased with Stover's field goal percentage. The Bulldogs hit well over 50 per cent. "We worked (the ball) well against the zone, but next time it might be different," he pointed out.

Asked about the possibility of facing the Tigers again next week in the Stover Tournament, Coach Pummill replied, "I don't look forward to it."

Smithton claimed the girls game, 22-13.

Stover couldn't capitalize at the free throw line.

Pete Greene, the Smithton girls coach, was delighted with the victory and said he didn't do anything different in preparing for this game. "We worked on the stuff we've worked on all year," he said, adding, "Sometimes winning isn't as important as people think," he said. "I plan on developing the girls' skills of basketball."

Greene said he likes to substitute now more than he did because he said some of his girls have enough will power and want to play.

"I used to didn't like to substitute, but now I give the starters a break to fire them up for the game," he said of his strategy.

Mo. teams reach JuCo title game

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Bill Barton and his State Fair Community College Roadrunners traveled more than 300 miles to play Trenton (Mo.) Junior College last night. Not that Trenton is that far from Sedalia, but Hutchinson, Kan., is.

The Roadrunners, on the strength of an 85-68 victory over Lincoln, Ill., and Trenton, a 75-74 winner over host Hutchinson, were scheduled to square off here last night in the finals of the Blue Dragon Classic.

State Fair, playing its first game in three weeks, raced to a 42-34 half time lead and upended Lincoln, Ill., in the first round of the four-team classic Friday night.

"I thought we played pretty good considering the long layoff," said Barton, whose team carved out victory No. 10 on the season against only two losses.

"I was pleased with our defense, but we didn't rebound the way I thought we should have," he continued.

The rebound situation Barton was talking about in particular was his team's defensive board positioning.

"They (Lincoln) got 15 offensive rebounds... and that's a little too much," said the veteran SFCC coach.

"We had a bunch too, but we didn't block out well enough," he added.

The Roadrunners, led in scoring by Charles Johnson, the 6-3 sophomore standout from California, Mo., were able to go man-to-man defensively the entire game. That mrked a first for SFCC this season, who have relied mostly on zone defenses due to the lack of depth.

But James Sumlin, a 6-9 freshman from Aliquippa, Pa., made his junior college debut in a substitute role, and turned in a good effort according to Barton.

Sumlin was one of two players that were not eligible first semester.

The Roadrunners did get some bad news from the National Junior College Athletic Association, which is headquartered here.

Another player, freshman Leonard Dixon from Clewiston, Fla., will not be eligible at all this year. Barton said the reason was due to a transcript mix-up on records of two college's Dixon attended last season.

In Friday night's action, Johnson was joined in double figures by three other players — Ray Steele (18), Lyonel Hardin (16) and Shelvy Brown (12).

Last night's finals featured two teams from the Greater Kansas City Community College Conference.

State Fair returns home this week for two key games. Thursday night the Roadrunners host nationally-ranked Moberly Area Junior College; Saturday, SFCC travels to Kansas City for a GK4C contest against Penn Valley.

Scoring

State Fair (85) — Charles Johnson 24, Ray Steele 18, Greg Sewell 2, Lyonel Hardin 16, James Sumlin 6, Shelvy Brown 12, Glyn Bennett 4, Steve Davies 2, Gary Routh 1.

Lincoln, Ill. (68) — Randy Banks 7, Mike Kelly 6, Mike Butler 6, Floyd Atkins 1, Greg Gomez 4, Bob Darling 6, Dean Brown 13, Dave Conklin 2, Gary Durchold 2, Frank Welch 12, Larry Wright 9.

Green Ridge Tigers lose heartbreaker

GREEN RIDGE — "Of all the ways to lose one, this was hard to take," said a discouraged Larry Barb, coach of the winless Green Ridge Tigers, a 43-42 loser at homecoming Friday night to Warsaw.

Green Ridge had a one-point lead, 42-41, with two seconds to go. They also had that all important article — the ball. Randy Scotten was at the line shooting a one-and-one.

"I called time out, and told them not to foul if he missed the shot," said Barb.

Well, Barb's worst thoughts came true. Scotten missed, Steve Spencer pulled the ball off for Warsaw and was fouled by Joe Mattingly.

The teams went to the other end of the court with no time showing on the clock. Spencer, who scored 11 points for the Wildcats, converted the free throws and pulled Warsaw to victory in Kaysinger Conference play.

Jim Binder of Green Ridge was the leading scorer in the game.

The loss in the varsity game ruined an otherwise good night for the Tigers, now 0-11. They won the junior varsity game in overtime, 44-42, and the girls varsity game, 50-26.

Jackie Rodewald led the Tigers in the jayvee win with 12 points, while Gale Harding poured in 28 for Green Ridge in the girls victory.

Colts' coach rated No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Marchibroda, the low-keyed, first-year leader of the Baltimore Colts who directed one of the most remarkable turnarounds in sports history, was named National Football League Coach of the Year overwhelmingly Saturday by The Associated Press.

Marchibroda, who took a team that shared the NFL's worst record in 1974 at 2-12 and molded it into the champion of the American Conference East with a 10-4 mark this year, received 51 of the 78 cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Bum Phillips, the first-year coach of the resurgent Houston Oilers was runner-up with 12 votes, followed by Miami's Don Shula with six. The remaining votes went to Dallas' Tom Landry with four, St. Louis' Don Coryell with three and Minnesota's Bud Grant with two.

The 44-year-old Marchibroda was hired by Colts' General Manager Joe Thomas as last Jan. 15 after 14 years as an assisant coach, the last nine with George Allen with both the Los Angeles Rams and Washington Redskins.

"I try to be myself and not anyone else I've coached for," says Marchibroda, who says he "learned the X's and O's" from some of the veteran players and coaches when he was offensive backfield coach at Washington under Bill McPeak.

"I learned organization, how to put in long hours, from Allen," he says, stressing that his own players "are also willing to work extra hours. The total thing is good team preparation."

In his playing days, he quarterbacked St. Bonaventure College during 1950-51, then, when the Bonnies dropped football, transferred to the University of Detroit in 1952 and was one of the nation's leading passers.

In 1953 he was the Pittsburgh Steelers' first-round draft choice.

Sweet Springs drops Grems

"We played terrible, just terrible," said Tom Jennewein, second-year head coach at Sedalia Sacred Heart after the Gremlins' 69-46, non-conference loss to Sweet Springs Friday night.

"I'm looking at the film and I notice even more things we did wrong than I saw during the game," he added.

"In fact, I can't see too many things that we did right," he concluded of his Gremlins' setback on their own floor.

Sacred Heart, although outscored in both the first and second quarters, were in the game until the third period. Sacred Heart trailed at the intermission, 35-28, but fell back 52-36 as play moved to the third quarter.

"We didn't seem up for the game," Jennewein said. "We played poorly defensively, and we had very little execution on offense. Coupled with the fact that we had a bunch of turnovers ... I don't know really how many ... it was just a bad night," he concluded.

Brad Nicholson provided Sacred Heart with one of the few bright spots for Jennewein. In a starting role, Nicholson, a junior, led the Gremlins with 13 points. Mel Simon added 10.

Sweet Springs placed four players in double figures. Don Prindle led the way with 17, followed by Paul Knight (16), Neal Bray (11) and Steve Perkins (10).

Sacred Heart, which plays host to Kansas City St. John's Friday night in another non-league game, won the junior varsity opener, despite giving up a lot of size, 51-40. Sophomore Danny Fall scored 13 points for Sacred Heart, while freshman Mark Felton followed with 10.

Scoring

Sweet Springs (69) — Reid 7, Prindle 17, Knight 16, Bray 11, Sheriff 2, Perkins 10, Pomereke 2, Higgins 2, Hicks 2.

Sacred Heart (49) — Simon 10, Stephenson 4, Borchers 5, Bernard 4, Nicholson 13, Dooley 8, Bellmer 5.

East blanks West, 16-0 in Hula Bowl classic

HONOLULU (AP) — The East, mounting the day's only sustained drive with the running of Purdues Mike Pruitt and Kentucky's Sonny Collins, forged a 16-0 victory over the West Saturday in the 30th Hula Bowl football game.

Don Bitterlich of Temple added three field goals including a pair of Hula Bowl-record kicks from 46 yards out.

Both teams started shakily, fumbling and losing the ball to each other within the first 90 seconds.

But the East, using the power running of the 210-pound Pruitt and the slashing outside speed of the 190-pound Collins, put together a 17-play 80-yard touchdown drive in the second quarter capped by Pruitt's four-yard touchdown burst.

Collins, the speedster whose final year at Kentucky was marred by controversy over allegations of drug usage on the team and a murder investigation, had two 14-yard gains in the drive, including a loop around left end which put the ball on the west four-yard line.

Pruitt banged in for the touchdown on the next play, running right between Oklahoma's touted Selmon brothers, Leroy and Dewey who were anchoring the center of the West's defensive line.

Leroy Selmon was voted the game's outstanding defensive player and Ohio State quarterback Cornelius Greene of the East was named the outstanding offensive player.

Bitterlich had all three of his field goals in the second half, one from 26 and the two long ones.

He broke the Hula Bowl field goal record of 40 yards set by Mark Williams of Rice in 1973.

While Collins and Pruitt combined for 98 rushing yards in the game, the East defense shutout Oklahoma's Joe Washington in the first half and allowed him only 38 yards for the game.

Iowa State loses again

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Sam Smith and Eddie Owens sparked a breakaway midway in the second half and fifth-rated Nevada-Las Vegas held off winless Iowa State for an 88-82 intersectional basketball victory Saturday afternoon in a regionally televised basketball game.

Nevada-Las Vegas, 16-0, trailed 66-64 at the midway point of the second half when Smith scored on two long jump shots and stole an inbounds pass that gave the Rebels another basket and a 70-66 lead with 9:30 remaining.

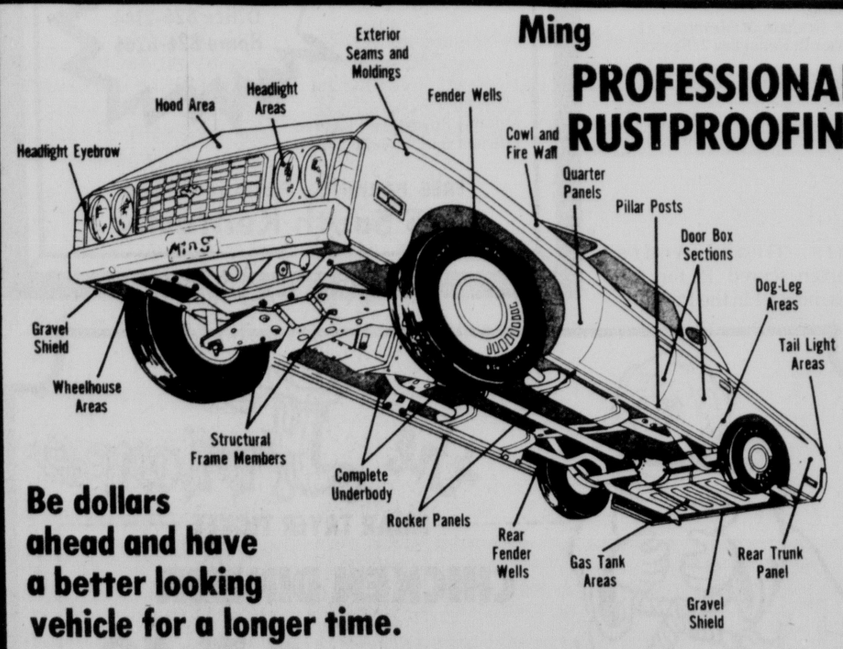

Smith finished with 17 points — 11 in the second half — while Owens added 20 points, Lewis Brown 12 and Jackie Robinson 10 plus 15 rebounds.

Weiskopf leads Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf, object of a raging controversy at this tournament a year ago, emerged from a tightly bunched field with a five-under-par 67 and assumed the third-round lead Saturday in $200,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Weiskopf, who was accused— and later exonerated—of unprofessional play when he missed the cut here in 1975, put together a three-round total of 205, 11 under par on the 7,200 yards of cactus-studded desert real estate that make up the Tucson National Golf Club course.

Just one stroke off his pace were Johnny Miller and Tom Watson. Miller, the runaway winner of this tournament for the past two seasons, had a third-round 67 and Watson, winner of the British Open and two other 1975 titles, shot a 68 that included a watery bogey on the final hole that kept him from a tie for the top.

Veteran Rod Funseth followed with a 66-207, two shots behind the leader. Dave Hill, with a 71, and Dave Stockton, with a 69 that included a double bogey on the 18th hole, were tied at 208.

The bulky group at 209 was made up of Lee Trevino, Don January, Gibby Gilbert, Howard Twitty and tour sophomore Bruce Lietzke, leaving 11 men locked within four stokes of each other going to Sunday's final round of play for a $40,000 first prize.

The husky Lietzke had a remarkable round that included nine birdies, a double bogey and a triple bogey, the triple bogey coming on the treacherous 18th, which is bounded by water on both sides of the 460 yard fairway. The same water led to Johnny Miller's triple bogey seven in the first round of competitive play on the pro tour this year.

Six players led or shared the lead in the bright, warm winter sunshine before Weiskopf pulled away.

He reached the first two par fives in two and two-putted for birdies, holed another from about 10 feet and took the lead alone with a 15-foot birdie putt on the seventh.

Weiskopf scored his third birdie four of the day on the 11th, bogeyed the 12th from a bunker, then dropped in a 10-footer on the next hole.

The on-rushing Watson tied Weiskopf with iron shots that left him birdie putts of 2½ and 1½ feet on the 15th and 16th holes, then surrendered his share of the top spot when his tee shot bounced into the water on the 18th.

Miller didn't make a bogey, didn't really come close. In addition to his long birdie putt on the final hole, he hit three in the 12-15 foot range and dropped another from about 45 feet.

Evert wins semifinals

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Chris Evert overwhelmed teenage pal Martina Navratilova 6-0, 6-3 in the semifinals of the $100,000 World Series of Women's Tennis Saturday.

Miss Evert's victory over the Czech, who now is a U.S. resident, put her into Sunday's $50,000 final against old-rival Evonne Goolagong of Australia.

Ms. Goolagong ralled from a 3-1 deficit in the first set to beat Virginia Wade of Great Britian 7-5, 6-0 in the other semifinal.

Miss Evert sprayed precision shots all over the court, which her friend, a muscular lefthander, simply did not have the speed to reach.

Miss Navratilova won only four points in the first set and muttered to herself in English on several occasions as Miss Evert's shots whistled past her. Once she even smiled in admiration as a delicate shot dropped just over the net.

Four questionable calls in the match seemed to upset Miss Navratilova and Miss Evert said later, "She let too many things bother her. It is just her temperment... She is very emotional. Mentally, I have something over her."

Miss Evert said she hit to Miss Navratilova's backhand, because "her forehand is really tough"

She said her foe in the championship match, Ms. Goolagong, "is always difficult for me to play. She's so loose... She's a great athlete."

The noon final will be nationally televised as was Miss Evert's victory over Miss Navratilova.

Miss Evert holds a 13-9 carreer record over Ms. Goolagong.

Ms. Goolagong was unruffled by the chilly temperatures and gusting winds, while Miss Wade seemed flustered by the weather conditions.

Norton stops Lovell

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Ken Norton killed some time while awaiting a title shot against heavyweight championt Muhammad Ali by taking charge when he was ready Saturday and stopping Pedro Lovell of Argentina in the fifth round of a scheduled 12-round fight.

Norton, 30, one of only two men ever to defeat Ali, set up Lovell with a series of lefts and rights to the head, and referee Ferd Hernandez stopped the nationally televised fight at 1:40 of the fifth round after a smashing right to the head buckled Lovell's legs and caused him to turn his back on Norton.

Lovell held his own in the first three rounds, scoring well with a left jab and sending home an occasioanl hard right. But Norton, pushing his career record to 35-3, almost took Lovell out the fourth round he staggered his opponent with a left uppercut to the chin in a neutral corner. Norton then pushed Lovell to the center of the ring, continuing to land shots to the head. As the bell sounded to end the round, Lovell walked slowly back to his corner.

In the fifth round, Lovell's speed seemed gone as Norton quickly resumed his relentless attack. Lovell's record slipped to 16-2-1. Norton, fighting at 220—his heaviest ever and 12 more pounds than Lovell—keeps alive a tentative July 4 title shot against Ali.

Don King, promotor for Ali's fights, said prior to the bout that Norton would be Ali's next major opponent—after Jean Pierre Coopmans Feb. 20 in Puerto Rico—with a fight tentatively planned for July 4 in New York, Washington, D.C., or Philadelphia. However, Ali probably will fight someone like Henry Clark between his match with Coopman and the time he fights Norton.

King said Norton had the advantage as Ali's next "big-fight" opponent over former champion George Foreman because Norton has been more active and has fought well against Ali twice before. Norton defeated Ali in 1973, taking a 12-round decision and breaking Ali's draw. However, he lost a split decision to Ali later in the year.

Norton picks up $100,000 for the fight. Lovell had been guaranteed $50,000.

The bout was televised live on CBS television but only about 1,000 people showed up at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

Tim Craig, one of three Windsor players in double figures, captured game honors with 26 points; Greg Walthall added 14 and Darryl Sypes 10.

In the junior varsity game, Windsor won handily, 71-32.

Opening lead -- A ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

When do you use a Stayman two-club response to an opening notrump in preference to a transfer bid? In general, you use Stayman because you have five cards in one major and four in the other.

South has 11 high-card points, four spades and five hearts and responds two clubs. His jump to three hearts at his next turn is a forcing bid.

North's first thought is to bid three notrump. He only holds jack and two small hearts. Then he thinks some more, decides that his partner's bidding has shown decided weakness in at least one minor suit and that four hearts is the place to be.

It sure is. West gets his two aces and South collects the other 11 tricks.

Had North bid three notrump. East might have led the 10 of diamonds. In that case North would be one down. Against a club lead, North would make four notrump, but that would be 20 points less than the points South scored at hearts.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader wants to know what North should open with:

♠ A K Q ♥ A Q J ♦ Q J 10 8 4 ♣ K 9.

This is a standard opening two notrump. North has 22 high-card points, all suits stopped and 5-3-3-2 distribution.

student reports

Elizabeth Sinn, Route 4, has been named secretary of the Association for Computing Machinery at the University of Missouri-Rolla, it was announced this week. The group is a national organization for students interested in computing machinery. Larry Guevel, Lexington, was named treasurer.

Two Sedalia youths have been named to the Dean's Honor Roll at Northwest Missouri State University, Maryville. Jyl Jones and Rebecca Martin, both of Sedalia, were among 131 students with a perfect 4.0 grade point average for the fall 1975 semester.

Big city cops find a new home

VALLEY, Neb. (AP)—Television has popularized the big city police duets in Los Angeles and New York — there are Friday and Gannon, Hutch and Starsky, and Reed and Malloy — now this tiny Nebraska community of about 1,600 has its own pair of New York Cops: Maniaci and Phillipaitis.

Their names may not ring a bell right away, mainly because there isn't a lot of crime in Valley, but a network film crew, newspaper and radio reporters were here when Anthony Maniaci, 22, and Joseph Phillipaitis, 23, were on the job this week.

Up until about one month ago, they were just two of the about 4,000 New York City police officers who were laid off because of the city's financial problems. Then they gained nationwide attention through a news story about how they had decided to give up the big city life for awhile by taking jobs in a small Midwestern town.

"People I didn't even know have been sending me clippings from all over the country," said Valley Police Chief Richard Blitz, himself a former New Jersey law enforcement officer who decided to move here last February because New Jersey "has all the minus features of life."

"We didn't think anything like this would happen, but we love it," said Phillipaitis.

It was Phillipaitis and another former New York police officer who started the trend of laid off Gotham officers looking for jobs in small towns. Both men spotted an ad about officers wanted in Valley in a bulletin of the Former Police Officers Association of New York, and decided to check it out.

The friend didn't think he could make the transition, but Phillipaitis remained interested.

Phillipaitis didn't think he had enough money to make the move by himself, so he started looking up old police academy buddies, and he came up with Maniaci.

"He woke me up and said 'Do you want to go to Nebraska?' and I said okay," said Maniaci.

When they first arrived in town, there were doubts. But then they found out that Omaha is just about 15 miles away.

"Omaha has everything New York has, but on a smaller, cleaner scale," said Maniaci. "There is nothing in New York that they don't have here except maybe crime."

Although the two men, who had two years experience with NYPD, will be getting only about half the salary they got in New York, the money goes farther, they said. The two feel safer too.

"There's not that constant looking over your shoulder," Phillipaitis said.

The two were assigned to the high-crime Central and East Harlem areas while in New York.

"There was a murder, rape and homicide every few minutes," said Phillipaitis. "In one year there were 90 murders in the Harlem area, and that was just the bodies they found."

Maniaci recalled the first day on the New York force, after completing six months of training at the police academy.

"I was just walking out of a doorway and a bullet bounced off the door," Maniaci said.

"They may be stepping down to a degree in activity," said Blitz of his newest officer. "But at least I know they can handle any possible situation that could arise here."

Blitz said there's no guarantee the two men will be able to make the adjustment to small town living.

"A lot of it will depend on the people here. The loss of these policemen will be their loss," said Blitz.

Stop further purchases of equipment

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Purchases of expensive diagnostic hospital scanners have been stopped in a six month moratorium called for Friday by the State Office of Comprehensive Health Planning.

The scanners, which have been on the market less than a year, are x-ray types of machines which feed findings into a computer which prints a picture of the body section. Full body scanners cost between $300,000 and $500,000.

"Since the $160 to $230 cost to the patient is higher than conventional x-ray procedures, and since we are not sure how much more beneficial scanners are than conventional x-ray procedures, we want to do some more studies before we continue to approve their use," Marvin Mantyk, evaluation director of the state office, said. Mantyk's office approves all medical expenditures which are reimbursed by Medicare and Medicaid funds.

"There has been very little clinical testing of the equipment and the total scope of their use is not even known by the manufacturers," Mantyk added.

Six full body and seven head scanners are now approved or in use in Kansas City, St. Louis, Columbia and Springfield.

Mantyk said a task force would report by the end of the six month moratorium on the need for the scanners.

Two more file for Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two more candidates have joined the growing field of hopefuls for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination in Missouri.

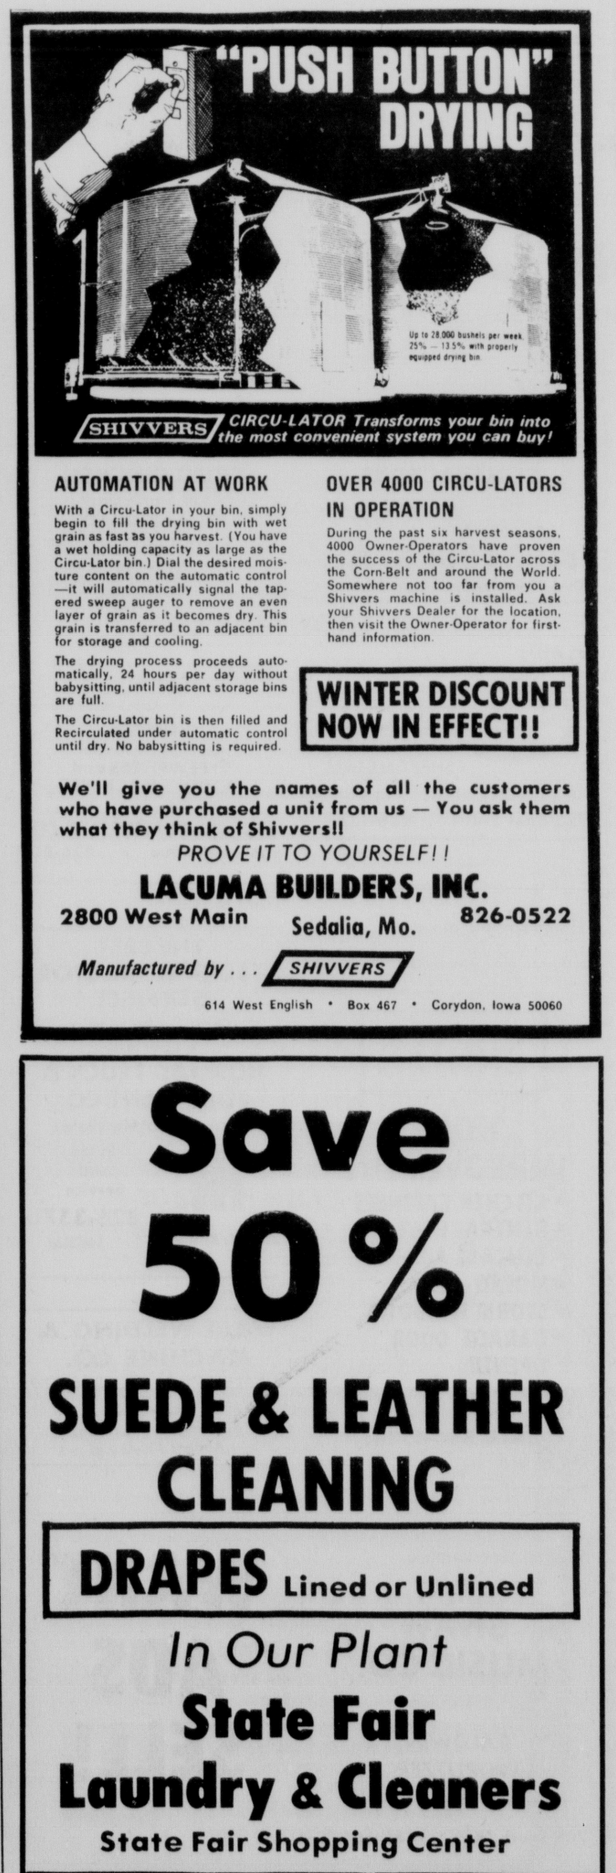

Norbert D. Collins of St. Louis, a retired businessman and unsuccessfull 1974 primary contender for auditor, and F. Russell Millin of Kansas City, who served as Western District U.S. attorney from 1961-1967, filed for the Senate seat Friday.

Four other Democrats have already filed for the primary contest in August for the seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Stuart Symington, including former Gov. Warren Hearns.

Two major candidates have not declared for the race yet. They are Northwest Missouri Congressman Jerry Litton and Congressman James Symington, the incumbant's son.

With a Circu-Lator in your bin, simply begin to fill the drying bin with wet grain as fast as you harvest. (You have a wet holding capacity as large as the Circu-Lator bin.) Dial the desired moisture content on the automatic control—it will automatically signal the tapered sweep auger to remove an even layer of grain as it becomes dry. This grain is transferred to an adjacent bin for storage and cooling.
The drying process proceeds automatically, 24 hours per day without babysitting, until adjacent storage bins are full.
The Circu-Lator bin is then filled and Recirculated under automatic control until dry. No babysitting is required.

Which car is bigger?

Well, the Volkswagen Rabbit actually has as much headroom and legroom as that bigger car. And as far as luggage space goes, with the rear seat folded down it holds as much as a Cadillac Fleetwood.

It's merely our front and rear that are smaller.

Our front is smaller because we put the engine in sideways. And our rear is smaller because of our ingeniously designed hatchback and rear seat that adjusts to three different luggage positions.

Incredible? Sure. But then, just about everything about this car is incredible.

For example, the standard transmission Rabbit got an EPA-estimated 39 miles per gallon on the highway (and 25 in the city), yet it goes from 0 to 50 in 8.2 seconds. (Actual mileage may vary depending on type of driving, driving habits, car's condition and optional equipment.)

Stop in for a test drive and you'll see what we mean.

Better yet, bring the wife and kids. And try the whole car on for size.

Maturity comes slowly for Ron Howard

HOLLYWOOD — This coming March, Ron Howard will be 22. It's hard to believe but he's been acting for 17 years and he feels it's high time he began acting his age.

At the moment, he's the star of the ABC hit Happy Days. Although he's still playing a teen-ager on the show, he says that at least he's getting a chance to show some signs of maturity.

"These next few years," Ron says, "will be a period of transition for me. At least I hope they will be. I can't go on forever playing an 18-year-old.

"Happy Days is letting me mature somewhat. Last year, me and my buddies on the show were juniors in high school and this year we're seniors. Next year, the plans call for us all to go on to college."

But he's looking beyond the series which, inevitably, will end some day. Then he wants to have a crack at grown up roles, parts with some meat on their bones. He feels he's been playing kid parts long enough.

This is his third season on Happy Days. He had eight years as Opie on The Andy Griffith Show, a few years on The Smith Family, and, in between, he was in dozens of movies including, of course, "American Graffiti."

All that was fine when he was a boy playing a boy and a teen-ager playing a teen-ager, but he's a man now and it's time to put aside childish things.

One thing, he's a married man. Last June, he married his high school sweetheart Cheryl. She's still going to college, studying psychology, and plans to go for both a master's degree and a doctorate, and then work with either retarded children or in the field of geriatrics.

Ron is continuing his education, too, when he can, but it's hard to do work and go to college. He admits his educational pursuits currently are "just dabbling," just taking a few courses which interest him in such subjects as history, business and literature.

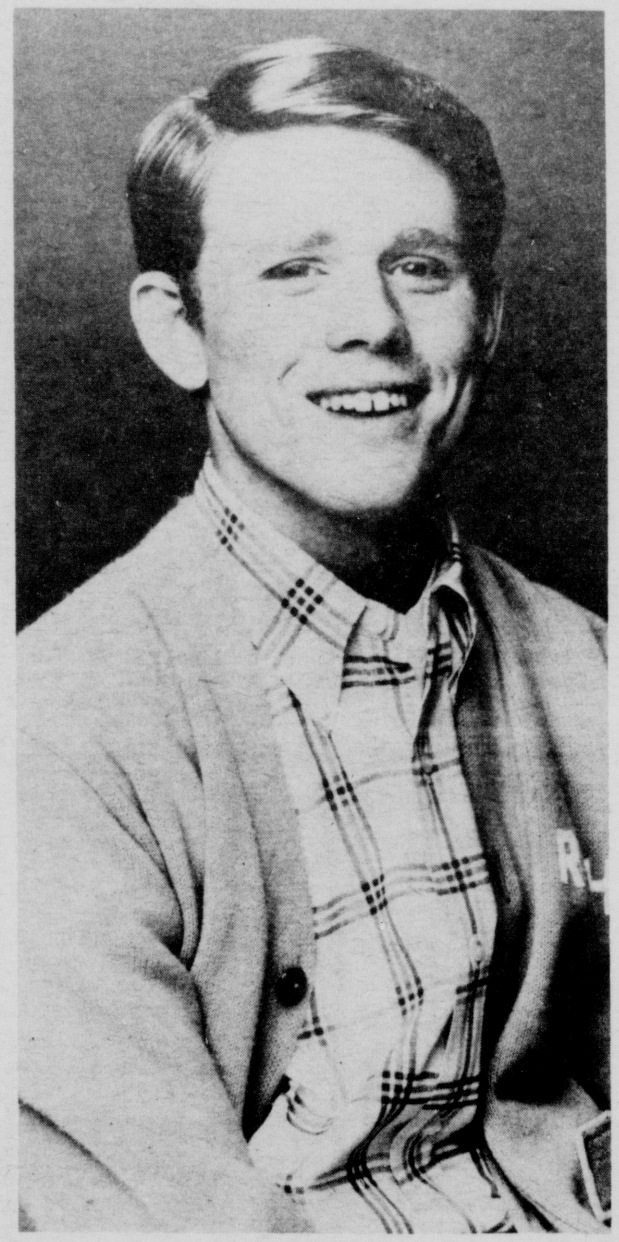

Even though he started acting when he was five, his father, an actor named Rance Howard, never pushed him. On the contrary, Ron's dad always was careful to tell him he didn't have to be an actor if he didn't want to be one.

And, for a time when he was in high school, he quit acting in favor of sports. As he puts it, "I devoted myself to basketball," and had dreams of a career on the basketball court.

"At that time," he says, "I expected to grow to be a six-footer. But I didn't. Maybe that's why I went back to acting."

Now there's something else on his mind. He'd like to direct. At the moment, he and some friends are making a movie, budgeted at $10,000, which is high for a strictly amateur project. Ron wrote it and is directing it and the group figures it will take them 15 weekends to complete. Cheryl Howard is in charge of make-up, costumes and is the script girl.

So the Ronnie Howard of The Andy Griffith Show has become Ron Howard, a fully-grown and very serious person. It was, after all, inevitable.

Quick before he gets yanked

In total panic over the rumors that NBC may yank Ellery Queen off, we five ladies have begun writing letters to NBC. Meanwhile, what can you tell us about Jim Hutton? — Thanks, N. Quan, Glasgow AFB, Mont.

Relax. NBC has retained Ellery Queen and Jim Hutton for the full season. After the first of the year, it will be moved to Sundays. Hutton has done several movies and for a time he and Paula Prentiss were an on-screen combination in sophisticated comedies. Some of his films were "Where the Boys Are," "The Horizontal Lieutenant," "Bachelor in Pardise," and "Walk, Don't Run." He's from Binghamton, N.Y., and is very tall — listed at 6-4 but perhaps a bit over that. He is divorced and the father of three children. Write him at Universal Studios, Universal City, Calif. 91608.

Spaced out question

Where are the props made for Space 1999? Also, where can I write Barbara Bain and Martin Landau? — A Space 1999 fan, Austin, Tex.

That series, and the props, costumes and sets that go with it, are all made in England. The Landaus are back in California now, after a couple of years over there filming the series. Write them (they are married, in case you didn't know) care of the Screen Actors Guild, 7750 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood, Calif. 90046.

Edwards looking for a talk show

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — Geoff Edwards is one of Los Angeles' more popular disc jockeys. He's also a successful game show host and currently handles that assignment on shows like NBC's Jackpot! But he thinks there's more to life than jockeying discs and hosting game shows.

He's searching for the perfect format for a talk show and thinks maybe he's on the right track. He is currently putting together a pilot for the show he wants to do and there is interest in his idea in several quarters.

"I'm trying to make a talk show that would be different," Edwards says. "The ones that are on now are almost all like — the host, the inevitable guests, the chit-chat, maybe a song or two.

"I think the problem is that the current crop of talk show hosts — particularly the afternoon guys like Mike Douglas and Merv Griffin — aim their shows at the older audiences. If I were to compare them to magazines, Douglas would be the Ladies' Home Journal and Griffin Woman's Home Companion (no longer published).

"There's nobody out there trying to reach the younger age group, the people from 20 to 40. And it's that group the advertisers want to reach, because they do so much of the buying."

So Edwards' format would be designed to attract that younger audience.

He says he would do some investigative TV reporting. As an example: "I heard recently that a certain hemorrhoid preparation is being bought by gals to use to take wrinkles away from under their eyes. I'd get a gal, have her use it under her eyes and see what happens after a week, a few weeks, a few months."

He says he might do the same thing with a girl attending a breast enlargement clinic, or a girl who went in for breast enlargement surgery.

"I'd talk to her and her husband before it," he says, "and then immediately afterwards and then maybe six months or a year later. I think it would be interesting to get her reactions and those of her husband, too."

He says he would also employ a few undercover reporters. If, for example, he heard reports that a certain high school had a quick and easy supply of drugs, he'd get one of his undercover people to become a student at the school.

Swiss Family Robinson is about to begin filming a two-part episode dealing with the pirate Jean Lafitte, who historically helped Andrew Jackson to defend the Port of New Orleans. Frank Langella is playing Lafitte and it is a spinoff for a possible series.

Another project out of 20th Century-Fox (like Swiss Family Robinson) is "Sherlock Holmes in New York," a movie for NBC-TV which could well be a series. No casting as yet, but Patrick McGoohan would be a super Holmes.

———

If you read credits and you have seen the name of Elliott Reid as associate producer on The Cop and the Kid, it may seem familiar. And it should — he's a veteran actor.

———

Ruth Buzzi is playing a paramedic "groupie" on a segment of Emergency. She plays a woman who drives the paramedics nuts by insisting on cooking meals for them, showing up at the fire station daily and even following them out on their calls. Dick Van Patten plays her husband.

———

David Steinberg is very popular with college audiences. Asked if youngsters were his favorite audience, David said, "Any audience that isn't drinking is the best audience."

———

Has anyone noticed that McMillan and Wife is finished shooting — forever!

Rock Hudson's contract is up and he says he is not about to renew it.

Leonard Nimoy is doing Shakespeare these days. He appeared in "Twelfth Night" in Pittsburgh. He also learned his new book, "I Am Not Spock" sold out shortly after first printing.

———

Eat - your - heart - out - Easterners - quote from James Garner: "Several of us went swimming during lunch break while shooting for The Rockford Files on the beach. It was one of those magnificent December days."

———

Dorothy Lamour says everyone knows how to get to Bob Hope's Toluca Lake house, so when she wants to direct people to her house (right near his) she tells people to go to "Bob's garage entrance and turn left."

———

Charlotte Rae, a regular on Rich Little's new NBC-TV series, was the original Mammy Yokum in the Broadway production of "Li'l Abner."

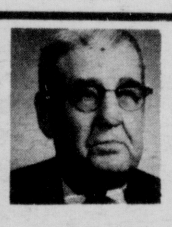

———

About 30 beauties showed up for auditions for what is certainly a glamorous job. The winners — 10 of them — will go to Tokyo for six months. At Tokyo's famed Nichigeki Theater, there will be a Bicentennial salute on stage.

Barry Ashton, who will coproduce the show for the Japanese, auditioned the girls. And he said the show will be on TV in Tokyo and could be seen here eventually. There's only one little thing standing in the way of the show being seen here — nudity.

"It's curious," Ashton said, "but it's OK to have nudity on Japanese TV but the Japanese will not allow any pornographic book stores."

California's Gov. Jerry Brown with his father, Pat Brown

FOR EILEEN FULTON, star of "As the World Turns"*

Did you ever do love scenes with someone you personally didn't like?—H.C., Miami Beach, Fla.

● Yes. There was once an actor (who shall remain nameless) whom I loathed. I couldn't stand his smell, his jokes or getting near him—let alone kissing him. The first thing I did was give him a bottle of my husband's favorite cologne, so one problem was eliminated. About the others—well, I tried to make up nice things about him. First I'd think of something sweet my husband did, then transfer it to the actor. Once a scene began, I'd be O.K. That's because I assumed the role of the character I was portraying. But it was tough going until the cameras started to roll.

FOR BOB HOPE

Who is your favorite comedian?—M.Y., Wilcox, Lansing, Mich.

● There are a lot of comedians I enjoy, really too many to make a complete list. I like Shecky Green, as well as many, many others who appear in Las Vegas. Some of the people who make me laugh hardest are behind-the-scenes people. For instance, I have a comedy writer named Charlie Lee who really breaks me up.

FOR SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER (R-Ariz.)

Why are you such an outspoken defender of our military forces? Can't the world's most extravagant military establishment defend itself?—R. Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● The U.S. does not have the most extravagant military system. I would bestow that honor on the Soviets. But to answer the main question, as long as there's a threat to our freedom or that of our allies, America must remain militarily strong. That threat has been, is and will continue to be the Soviet Union until we are mutually able to reduce it.

FOR SUNNY GRIFFIN, model

Do you feel that fashion is more down-to-earth today?—P.P., Scranton, Pa.

● Yes, for a very good reason—clothing has become a major investment. So, you'll be seeing more and more understated but chic clothing as long as the recession continues. I'd like to offer one hint about make-up for all the earth-colored clothes that are now the rage: complement them with deeper but not darker shades of make-up. Otherwise, you'll look invisible!

FOR JIMMY COCO, actor

You've been on Johnny Carson's show so often. What's he like?—L.E., Chattanooga, Tenn.

● Terrific to work with. He keeps guests at ease and out of embarrassing situations. He's the sort you want to know better away from the studio. And what a sense of humor! He passed a hotel room and heard the announcement on TV, ". . . And he-e-e-re's Johnny!" He knocked on the door, and the fellow who opened it cast one eye on the TV Johnny and his other eye on Johnny in the flesh. Johnny just asked him: "Can you tell me what time it is?"

FOR SANDY DUNCAN

Is this your first or second marriage, and do you have any children?—D.C., Vancouver, Wash.

● Tom (Calcattera) is my second husband. He's a doctor and was one of a team who examined me when I had my eye surgery. We've been married since January 1973. Scott, my 10-year-old stepson, is as tall as I am (5'4"). He's all I could want in a child. In fact, I'm not sure I want any of my own. He's fulfilled my maternal instincts.

FOR ABIGAIL VAN BUREN, "Dear Abby" columnist

Have you ever been asked a question that was impossible to answer?—Allen Spence, Blountville, Tenn.

● Stumped? No. But when a problem concerns something that one cannot change, such as a physical deformity that absolutely defies correction, the only answer to give is: "Learn to live with it, dear."

FOR EARL BUTZ, Secretary of Agriculture

Are the Russian people being told where all this wheat they're getting came from?—Hal Borden, Crystal Beach, Fla.

● No, I'm afraid not. The Soviet Union does not, as a matter of policy, report on grain imports in the public press. But some Russians will learn about these imports via foreign radio broadcasts, such as Voice of America.

FOR GRAHAM KERR, "The Galloping Gourmet"

Tell me, what happens to the food you prepare—who eats it, who pays for it and who cleans up?—Lenora Renshaw, Arroyo Grande, Calif.

● Our crew eats it, every single scrap. I pay for half the cost, and our production company takes care of the rest. Carol and Ann, who, incidentally, gave 10 percent of their wages to Freedom from Hunger relief, make everything nice and shipshape in the studio.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I saw an amateur production of "The King and I," and it reminded me of Yul Brynner. What's he doing these days?—B.E., Albany, N.Y.

Yul Brynner

● Brynner, now 55, is appearing in "Home Sweet Homer," his first Broadway show since he did "The King and I" 24 years ago. His last movie was "Westworld." You don't hear too much about him because he lives in Normandy, France, with his wife Jacqueline and adopted Vietnamese daughters, Mia, 19 months and Melody, 7 months (Yul has two children, Rock and Victoria, by previous marriages). He has made many documentary films for the U.N. World Refugees Organization. Oriental-born, he speaks 11 languages, and is shocked when he hears himself on tape. "I sound like a lousy foreigner," he complained. "It upsets me because I think of myself as an American actor." Brynner rejected his "King and I" role when it was first offered to him. He was 31 at the time, and felt he could not play a 55-year-old man.

The Governor's Son as Governor:

An Inside-the-Family Look At California's Controversial Leader

"The Brown children all vividly remember fiery discussions at the dinner table, and in particular, Jerry's debates with his father. . . . His father thought he was helping him to find his identity, Jerry thought he was being squelched."

Jerry Brown as teenager—in his first tux.

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

California's 34th Governor, Edmund Gerald Brown, Jr., has always wanted to do things on his own. But from the time he was born, he was cast in a role that had to be played out in the shadow of his effusive father, ex-Gov. Edmund Gerald (Pat) Brown, Sr. That overwhelming fact seems to have made Jerry Brown the kind of man he is today.

His father did the casting. "Pat had wanted his son to be named after him," said Bernice, wife of an ex-Governor named Brown, and mother of the present Governor of the same name. I never liked the idea of calling him Ed, so I used his middle name." Last January, 37-year-old Jerry Brown took over the governorship his father filled for eight years. Since then, the big political question has been: Just who and what is this rather puzzling, slender, intense-looking, heavy-browed, easily annoyed man who holds one of the nation's key political offices?

Is he, as first suggested, the intellectual leader who can rekindle the national spirit shot down by Kennedy's assassin? Or is he just a fellow pointing to tracks long imprinted in the sand? And how hard is he trying to prove to the world and himself that he's his own man, not just Pat Brown's son?

Jerry Brown seems to be doing everything he can to be as unlike his father as possible. He was quoted as saying he felt he almost lost the election because people associated him with his father. After he took office, he remarked, "I don't think my father thought I'd make it," and he refused to live in the new governor's mansion which he sarcastically calls "that $1.3 million Taj Mahal." Kidding, he says, "Maybe we can turn it into a halfway house for lobbyists."

Governor Brown now: Paying the rent.

His father, who loved the pomp of the office, chuckled. "I'd sorta hoped they'd let a retired Governor use it. Bernice and I could do all of his entertaining for him. But I'd never suggest that. Jerry wouldn't like it."

The new Governor seldom entertains. If he has to, he usually takes guests out to dinner or meets them at the office to talk. "I think he's missing out on a lot that way," his father said in his roomy law office in Beverly Hills. "One of the nicest things about being governor was getting to entertain interesting people like Sadat, Indira Gandhi and Khrushchev. I loved it!"

When I asked Jerry Brown why he turned down the mansion, he said, "First of all, it saves about a million dollars on security (a fact which worries his mother a lot) and in upkeep and maintenance fees. And even if I were married and had a family, I wouldn't want to live 25 miles away in a wealthy suburban area that bespeaks the affluence of a past era. To me, this symbolizes the disconnection between my job and what it stands for. If the old governor's mansion was still available, and if I had a family, that might have been O.K. But it's ridiculous to consider a place that's so big and expensive that there can't be five people in all of Sacramento who could maintain it! You can see where I stay from my office window," he said, pointing. "It's in walking distance, and I only sleep there anyway, so it's perfectly adequate."

He pays the rent himself, and one reporter wrote that he slept on a mattress on the floor, implying a monastic existence. "I wish they hadn't said it like that," said Jerry's mother. "Besides, Jerry has a nice home in Los Angeles. [It features a large room with fireplace, lots of books and plenty of windows overlooking Hollywood.] It's rather isolated, with lots of trees around it, the way Jerry likes it."

(I had asked Jerry if he was raised frugally. "Let's say I didn't have much of an allowance," he said. "I was given the option of making an effort and doing chores—or not getting an allowance." He grinned. "I usually opted for no allowance and no chores.")

His mother remembers: "When he was in high school, he'd come home around 3:30 and fix himself a steak and salad. That was his idea of a snack. And believe it or not, he could still sit down and eat dinner! He never gained weight then—maybe it was all that swimming and weight lifting he did. But now, he watches it. He'll say, 'No potatoes for me.'"

Jerry Brown has also refused Ronald Reagan's private jet, preferring to fly commercially ("You sit next to interesting people . . ." but airline officials shudder at the security risk). He has brushed aside the limousine used by his predecessors. "I drive whatever car is available in the motor pool. This year it happens to be '74 Plymouths," he told me. The only additions to the two vehicles he uses are state police radios and telephones.

The Governor didn't get where he is by accident. When Jerry was born, Pat Brown was already a prominent lawyer in San Francisco. By the time Jerry was five, his father had become a district attorney, and in 1951 he was elected attorney general of California. In '58, he ran for governor, won and remained chief executive for two terms. During all this time, Brown Sr. used his son as a ploy in his own campaigns ("When we were young, our father paraded us before the public. I didn't like it, and I'm sure Jerry didn't either," says Jerry's sister, Kathleen Rice, of the L.A. Board of Education.)

The Brown children all vividly remember fiery discussions at the dinner table, and in particular, Jerry's debates with his father. Pat calls them "rousing conversations," but Jerry—at 12 and 13—tended to feel they were tests of his mettle. His father thought he was helping him to find his identity. Jerry thought he was being squelched.

At 17, Jerry went off to Santa Clara University, a Catholic school. It was a step toward the independence he wanted so much. But this, too, was heavily influenced by his father.

Jerry's enrollment in Catholic St. Ignatius High School and Santa Clara was foreseeable. But not foreseeable was his leaving college to cloister himself as a Jesuit seminarian at Sacred Heart in Los Gatos, where—from age 18 to 22—he lived in extreme self-discipline amid books and scholars for three and a half years. "Studying for the priesthood gave me the opportunity to read, to think, to reflect," he says now. "I went into it because I thought the spiritual life was the most serious, worthwhile way to spend time. I felt I would be dealing with important things, and would get to the heart of things."

His mother says: "There's no question that Jerry's years under the Jesuits influenced him, and as a result, he became a scholar—which he might not have become otherwise."

For two hours every month, during visiting times, Pat Brown tried to persuade his son to return to the outside world and study law. At last he won—almost. Young Brown left to attend California's Berkeley campus. But he studied Latin and Greek, not law.

"I left," he said, "because after a few years I felt I had to move somewhere else. I was unwilling to accept the conformity that was expected of me. There were some promises I had to make that I simply couldn't fulfill. I wanted more freedom than I could have as a priest."

His pious training still shows. "I think he has a great inner strength," says his mother, whom he resembles. "When he was in training, he probably started thinking about the real values in life, and now he measures everything by that."

During his college days, he enjoyed the run of the governor's mansion and the State Capitol. No one was safe from his questioning. He also watched his father in action. Always outgoing, even bombastic, his father enjoyed the power of his office and went at his job with great enthusiasm. "Perhaps my best quality is that I like people. I never can believe that I can't make people like me," Pat Brown said.

"I think the job's breakneck pace is incompatible with marriage. For two people to be together constantly takes a lot of consideration and attention. I don't have the time right now."
—Jerry Brown

It would have been hard to escape such a whirlwind. Before long, Jerry was willing to get a law degree, like his father. By then it was almost a foregone conclusion that the second Edmund G. Brown would get into politics. Said Barbara, "I think he did it to please our father."

"It has always been part of my life," Jerry told me. "But consciously, I went into politics during the Vietnam War when I worked on Eugene McCarthy's campaign in an effort to end the war."

In 1969 Jerry won a place on the L.A. Community College Board of Trustees. In 1970 he became California's Secretary of State. "His four years in that job were good experience," his father said. "He learned a lot."

In 1974 Jerry took on the governorship, winning out in a hard-fought battle against Republican Houston Flournoy. Ironically, Pat Brown himself had considered running for the office again. "I stepped aside because Jerry was running," Pat admitted. "I didn't want to be in there trying to get votes against him. And I now realize that as we go along, we get barnacles—we get stuck with ideas and end up defending them. Jerry is fresh, has a new approach."

Since he took office, Jerry has not been free of criticism. One of the complaints is that he seems to have a hard time reaching decisions. Gray Davis, Jerry's executive assistant, defends his boss: "The easiest thing in the world would be for the Governor to present a problem to five advisors, then make a decision based on the best opinion. Jerry doesn't work that way. He will throw an idea at the legislature and let them come back with suggestions." Jerry himself admits that he does not believe in "hasty decisions." "I consider all the pros and cons," he says.

So far, Jerry has spent most of his energies on the Farm-Labor Program, the closing of tax loopholes, housing for poor income groups, and most of all, education. He has also given a lot of thought to what he sees as the country's changing needs and values. "It's time to realize there is a limit to economic growth, that we must live within our income and our resources. The present is not just an extension of the past where we had full employment, unlimited growth, unlimited everything. We have to learn to live with what we have if we want to survive. That includes holding the lid on spending."

He continues: "There has been an enormous appetite in this country for public service. I think people have to realize that public service isn't cheap. We have problems today that may take up to ten years to solve. For other problems, there may be no solution. But we must try."

The logical next step for an ambitious man—and Governor Brown is ambitious—is the Presidency.

"I'm not a candidate and I plan to stick to the job I'm doing now," he said. "I've only been in office nine months and I find this place hard enough to run." He grinned. "It's questionable whether California is even governable!"

"I think my son could be President," Pat Brown said firmly. "I think I could have been, under other circumstances. It's possible he could do what Kennedy did. He's a greater intellectual, and he's not that wealthy, but he has that mass appeal. Not individual appeal—he's more of an introvert—but mass appeal."

Unfortunately, Jerry does have one problem Kennedy did not: he tends to alienate people. "He's alienated some governors," says Pat Brown, "because he hasn't gone to their conferences." And says Jerry's mother: "Jerry wasn't particularly sensitive as a child. But he was thoughtful, and he still is. For instance, he will not give Christmas presents every year just because everyone else is doing so. When he does give something, it is given with a lot of thought. He won't give something unless it's meaningful!"

The day FAMILY WEEKLY talked with Governor Brown—the first interview he'd given to a weekly magazine, we were told—he was in shirtsleeves, and his lunch was a sandwich sent up from the cafeteria. And he was putting in an 18-hour-day, as usual. Was it true that he works nonstop, seven days a week, and has taken off an average of only one and a half days a month? "I work long hours, but I try to take off on Sunday," he said. "Then I'll go to the beach. Or out on a date." But Gray Davis says Jerry relaxes by working. His No. 1 enjoyment is solving problems.

"He's always kept his private life private," says his father, "but I can tell you he's brought home a lot of girls to meet us. Some of them I really liked—like Natalie Wood. He went with her for about a year after she divorced Bob Wagner. And lately there was Candice Bergen . . ."

"When we were young, our father paraded us before the public. I didn't like it, and I'm sure Jerry didn't either."—Jerry Brown's sister, Kathleen.

Was Jerry seeing a lot of singer Linda Ronstadt? "I've dated Linda," he said, then grinned. "I've also dated other girls . . ."

Any wedding plans for Jerry? "No," he says. "I think the job's breakneck pace is incompatible with marriage. For two people to be together constantly takes a lot of consideration and attention. I don't have the time right now."

Does the Governor have a sense of humor? "Yes, he does," his father said. "But it's intellectual and very subtle. Still, he can laugh uproariously." As for a temper, "He gets annoyed—irritated may be a better word—but he doesn't let go. Usually he just snaps back, or gets sarcastic."

Is there a rift between father and son? "We've always had a close relationship," his father insists. And Tom Quinn, who ran Jerry's campaign, said, "Jerry's warmth toward his father is deep and sincere. Pat didn't play an active role in Jerry's campaign because Jerry didn't want to use his father to win. I'm not sure Pat ever understood just how much his son wanted to do it himself."

This Seafood Casserole Practically Makes Itself!

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes an easy seafood casserole using fresh frozen North Atlantic cod fillets. "This is one of those easy casserole recipes you'll want to try on your family," says Marilyn. "Allow cod fillets to thaw in refrigerator during the day. When you come home, start the oven and assemble the three-layer casserole and bake. You'll be on your way to a tasty fish dinner in no time at all."

Rudy Muller

Quick to make, layered Cod 'n' Tater Casserole makes a pleasing family dinner.

MARILYN'S MENU

Cod 'n' Tater Bake* Braised Celery Wedges
Hearts of Lettuce Salad Dressing Browned Butter Crescents
Quick Cranberry-Orange Sherbet
*Recipe Given Coffee Tea Milk

COD 'N' TATER BAKE

1 pkg. (1 lb.) frozen cod fillets, thawed
1 can (10¾ ozs.) cream of shrimp soup, undiluted
½ cup sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
1 tablespoon white horseradish
Few drops Tabasco
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 pkg. (1 lb.) frozen potato rounds

1. Preheat oven to 400°F.

2. Arrange fillets in serving-size portions in 2-qt. shallow baking dish.

3. To make sauce, combine soup, sour cream, green onion, horseradish, Tabasco and paprika in small bowl.

4. Spoon sauce over fish fillets, covering them completely. Top with frozen potato rounds.

5. Bake 30 to 35 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Makes 4 servings

What's Smart: Fish, almost a perfect food because its protein is complete protein, makes a nutritious, economical entrée. Lean, white-fleshed North Atlantic Ocean fish contain 18- to 20-percent protein and are 85- to 95-percent digestible. A four-ounce serving of "lean" fish contains fewer than 100 calories. The price of frozen cod fillets, in plentiful supply now, will generally range from $1.25 to $1.30 per pound.

Here are several tips for the proper handling of fish:

1. When purchasing frozen fish, select undamaged packages which feel solid.

2. Store fish in your freezer in its original vapor-moisture proof wrapping. Keep fish frozen until you plan to use it.

3. Because a home freezer may not keep foods at the ideal temperature — zero — storage should be limited. (Put purchasing date on packages.)

4. The refrigerator is the proper thawing spot for frozen fish (allow 24 hours for a one-pound package). Do not thaw fish at room temperature.

5. If the thawing process must be speeded up, immerse the fish in cold water, or hold it under cold running water. Fish must be wrapped in a waterproof package.

6. Use fish immediately after thawing. Never keep thawed fish longer than 24 hours.

For a helpful free pamphlet on fish, send for: "The Secrets of Serving Delicious Fish." Send a self-addressed, stamped large business envelope to: North Atlantic Seafood Association, Dept. SW, 111 East Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Pardon the intrusion. We wanted you to notice that the Miracle pound spreads two more loaves...

Miracle Brand Margarine is whipped. Which means more pats per pound. 36 more, to be exact. And that's enough to spread two extra loaves of bread at 18 slices per loaf.

In these times, that's a small miracle in itself. KRAFT

..If you are a pipe smoker, a "Carey Pipe" can end forever your constant search for the most enjoyable smoke of your life.

If you don't agree that it's the best smoke you've ever had, it won't cost you a dime. This top grade Mediterranean briar incorporates a sensational invention that contradicts every idea you've ever had about pipe smoking. It completely eliminates breaking-in. Tars, sludge, bite, and bitterness never reach your mouth. You get cleaner, cooler, tastier, moisture-free thoroughly enjoyable smoking.

It's the first pipe in the world that's guaranteed to give unadulterated pleasure to smokers.

Give it 30 days—

No cigarette, no cigar, nor any other pipe can give you the full rich flavor, aroma, deep down satisfaction, enjoyment, and peace of mind that you get from a Carey Pipe.

E. A. Carey

You may be a pipe smoker with a rack full of pipes and still searching for the ideal smoke, or perhaps you would like to switch to a pipe to cut down on cigarettes or expensive cigars.

The Carey Pipe may look like any ordinary pipe, but it's a lot different! In fact, there's nothing like it in the whole world. The Carey Pipe is made of the finest aged Mediterranean briar — but, its big secret lies in the exclusive patented "MAGIC INCH," cleverly concealed in a bite proof nylon stem.

It's Not a Filter

The "Magic Inch" is not a filter that gets soggy and loaded with foul smelling goo. A soggy, foul smelling filter transmits its stale foul odor into each successive puff of smoke, creating more problems than it solves.

It's Not a Trap

The "Magic Inch" is not a trap collecting moisture that gurgles with every draw. It is not a trap that must be cleaned after every smoke.

It's Almost Magic

Not my magic but NATURE'S OWN MAGIC. Warm winds pick up moisture by evaporation from the oceans, lakes, rivers, and streams, lift it high into the atmosphere where the cooler upper air squeezes it into drops of water that fall back to earth in its most perfect state of purity. Just as the colder upper air of the atmosphere causes rain, the cool air entering the "Magic Inch" chamber through the special louvers of the patented Carey stem, causes immediate condensation of the moisture in the smoke where it drops to the bottom of the chamber, is absorbed by the natural fiber sleeve of the "Magic Inch," and in turn, is evaporated into the outside air. No accumulation ever remains to form sludge or slugs of bitter tasting goo. The "Magic Inch" also mixes purifying oxygen with the smoke from the tobacco, in perfectly controlled proportions, cooling the smoke, eliminating all tongue bite, and creating MELLOWNESS, MILDNESS, and SWEETNESS that was never before enjoyed in pipe smoking.

Today, over one hundred and fifty thousand pipe smokers smoke Carey Pipes almost exclusively. They all got started by accepting my most unusual offer to test a Carey Pipe for 30 days, without any risk on their part whatsoever.

They were all granted the same option which is yours also. After 30 days, if you agree that the Carey Pipe is the best smoke of your life, you may keep it; if you don't agree, whack it with a hammer and return the broken pieces to me. The trial has cost you nothing! How many businesses are that sure of their product?

"It wasn't until I turned 55 that I became eligible to make one of the best investments I've ever made. Two dollars for a membership in AARP.

It's been 12 years now, and I still can't believe how that membership continues to pay off."

What's AARP?

AARP stands for the American Association of Retired Persons. A non-profit, non-partisan, non-governmental organization that exists to help its over 8 million members take full advantage of being 55 or older.

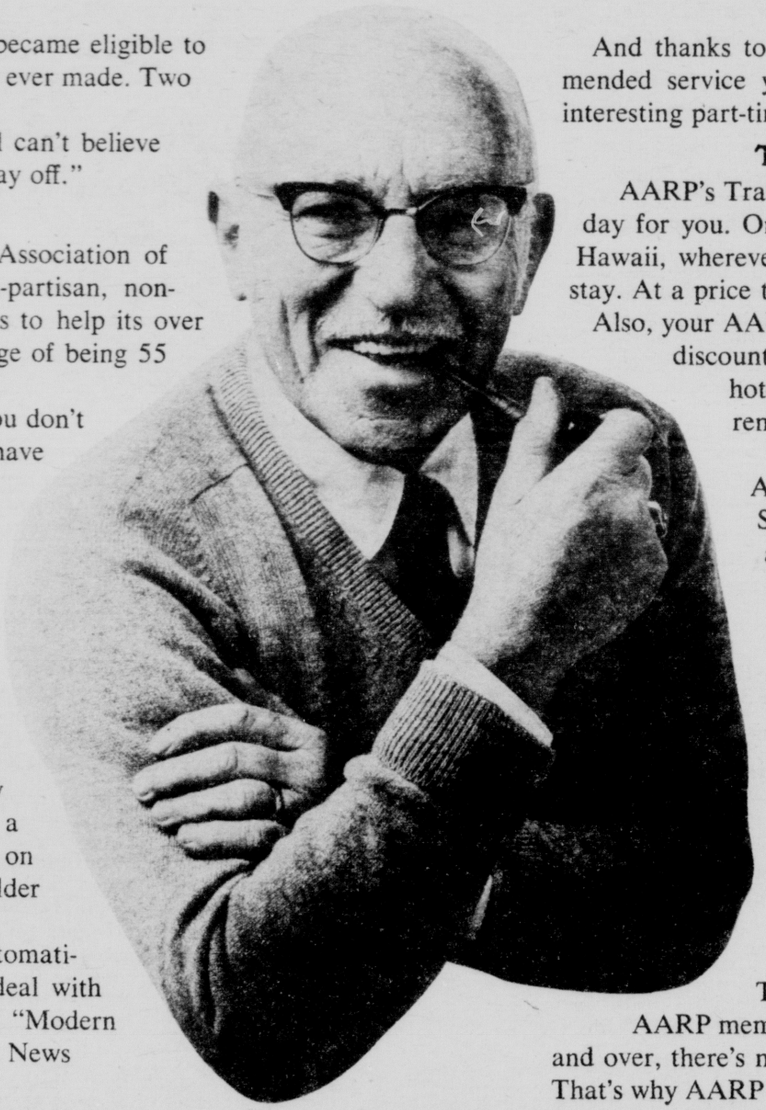

Anybody can belong to AARP. You don't even have to be retired. What you do have to be, is past your 55th birthday.

Then one AARP membership of $2 per year entitles both you and your spouse to all AARP's benefits and privileges.

Mr. Peter McNulty

And thanks to Mature Temps, an AARP-recommended service you may even get help in finding interesting part-time or temporary jobs.

The Advantages:

"The Trauma of Eventlessness"

A Psychiatrist's New Look at Housewife Boredom

By Dusty Sklar

"When a person has nothing to look forward to but an uninterrupted continuation of life, she may suffer the same feelings of helplessness as if she were overwhelmed by some external force."

I sometimes get so lonely," a young woman once told me, "that I go out and sit through a PTA meeting just to be with people." If you've ever sat through any organizational business meeting, you know how lonely that is.

It's odd to think of eventlessness as causing anxiety, but Psychiatrist Robert Seidenberg has described the feelings of panic, dread and impending disaster which a young suburban housewife may experience even when the conditions of her life are quite stable and secure. It's apparently the anticipation of more and more "eventlessness," the absence of stimuli, challenge, choices, decision-making, which can threaten one's well-being as much as a physical danger. The "something" that a housewife may dread is that "nothing" is going to happen—and for a long, long time. The future will be only a continuation of the past, and it will be bland, banal and confined.

Dr. Seidenberg describes a patient, a married woman with young children living an apparently well-adjusted life. The young woman's complaint is: "I'm afraid something is going to happen, but I don't know what it is." Dr. Seidenberg soon discovers that the woman's life lacks any sense of challenge or adventure. Ironically, she feels herself unaccountably threatened by some nameless danger. During the course of her psychoanalysis, it becomes clear that she has been caught in a secure trap. Her life is devoid of deprivation, predatory human beings or ferocious animals. Absence of challenge, decision-making, problem-solving would be her destiny.

This very absence of stimuli can have the same effects as an actual physical danger. When a person has nothing to look forward to but an uninterrupted continuation of life, she may suffer the same feelings of helplessness as if she were overwhelmed by some external force. Because she can't name the enemy, she is doomed to accept a passive role with a creeping sense of inferiority.

But why this increased dissatisfaction at a time when the feminist movement has made it possible for more and more women to fulfill themselves outside the home? Why now, of all times, should there be a greater incidence of suicide among the female population than among the male population?

Today, even though the average woman is still a "private person," she is excited and stimulated by the desire for a public life, which is still burdened by social and psychological penalties. It is also burdened by what Matina Horner, former Harvard psychologist and now president of Radcliffe, calls the "fear of success." The will not to succeed increases with a woman's ability. A major reason for this fear may be that success outside the home is still considered unfeminine.

What can a woman who faces the trauma of eventlessness do to extricate herself? How can she prevent the possible loss of self?

1. Recognize the dangers. Dr. Seidenberg feels that the anxiety itself is "salutary and self-preservative." His own particular patient withdrew from the role of shopper and hair-dryer captive to become a door-to-door canvasser for a research corporation in a dangerous inner-city neighborhood. "Plagued by anxiety in supermarkets and beauty salons," says Dr. Seidenberg, "she suffered no fear in this 'outside' work, only exhilaration, giving evidence once again that the overriding danger to her existence lay in the 'safety' of the housewife's role."

Sociologist Robert Coles says that what a child needs more than anything else is his parents' "support, concern and help." And yet: "These days, I feel a cultural pressure not to be absorbed in my child," says Ann Roiphe, author of "Up the Sandbox." Young women such as this one are not well served by a society which insists that all of life's prizes are won by those who are successful outside the home. "The new tolerance," says Mrs. Roiphe, "should ultimately respect the lady who wants to make pies, as well as the one who majors in higher mathematics."

And, also on the positive side, Margaret Mead points out that the home still "has areas of freedom that are almost wholly lacking in much American employment."

2. Encourage yourself and others to take the job of child-rearing seriously. It has never been more difficult, nor more denigrated. Love is, unfortunately, not enough in bringing up children well. The job requires all your intelligence and conscious effort, a putting-in-order of your own emotional state.

3. Finally, don't ignore your private dreams. If you can, decide what it is you really want to do in life—and if you can't just go out and do those things now, perhaps there is some way you can work toward them—day by day by day. FW

Jobmanship

Business Clichés That Could Spell Trouble

Some of the slogans you may hear at work sound more sensible than they really are. Writing in a leading management publication, Fred Fisher, Vice President of National Training and Development Service, points out that comments like "Have you checked the company policy on that? or "Does it square with the organization chart?" can often kill good ideas. You can add to profits or cut costs if you'll stop reacting to new ideas with the above remarks. When you hear your bosses insisting that "If there is one thing we believe in, it's competition," look around and see if they're talking about competition with other companies or internal competition in which every department is busy competing. In cases where your boss has the attitude, "We've got to minimize our risks," realize you're not going to learn very much on this job. A risk-minimizing atmosphere means your boss might expect you to forget aggressiveness and stick to company tradition. The boss's next step may be: "One mistake and you're out." This, Fisher says, can be one of the most dangerous of business clichés. Mistakes are a cost of doing business in an aggressive outfit and should be brought out in the open and worked on. But under the "one mistake and you're out" attitude, people naturally will do anything to hide and disguise their errors. So the business loses and no one learns.

(See number 2.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. People who believe society is to blame for a criminal's behavior have a different view of life from people who believe the criminal himself is solely responsible.

2. Children who participate in athletics are less likely to become delinquent.

3. When a person departs from the straight and narrow, his personality-type determines the kind of crime he will most likely commit.

4. There are certain signs in children which are predictive of violent or antisocial tendencies.

5. Nobody knows just why vandals want to destroy things.

6. You can reduce your vulnerability to crime without a revolver under your pillow.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychological studies at Yale and at the University of Chicago have found that people tend to be divided into two psychological types: the Externals, who tend to attribute responsibility for their own and other people's acts to external forces outside their control, such as environment, luck or social conditions in general; and the Internals, who tend to assume responsibility for their own acts, believing that whether the individual deserves praise or blame depends largely on his own efforts and personal motivation. Investigations have shown that this is true even in attributing blame for auto accidents.

2. True—according to studies of high school students. It's suggested that this is because athletics "provide greater exposure to *non*delinquent influences, stronger social controls, and that athletics result in less pressure toward rebellion, less boredom and less need to assert masculinity through deviant behavior." Another investigator concludes from his findings that if it were not for interest in interscholastic sports, there would be a marked increase in dropouts and various forms of delinquency.

3. True. Criminals have been found to have particular psychological attitudes that have a great influence on their choice of criminal behavior. This explains why there are specific types who specialize in pocket-picking or robbery with violence or fraud. Such criminals usually find themselves incapable of committing a different kind of crime. Thus the law-abiding citizen may take what consolation he can from the fact that the pickpocket isn't likely to try to sell him some phony oil stocks.

4. True. Studies show that a triad of behavioral symptoms—setting fires, chronic bed-wetting and mistreatment of animals—is indicative of an antisocial personality in the making. If a child shows these signs, the alert parent will recognize them and realize that the child needs special guidance and understanding.

5. False. Psychological studies show that they do it because, to them, it is exhilarating and exciting and provides a means of hitting out at society, which they feel has stacked the cards against them. As one authority who has completed an investigation of the causes for vandalism observes, "Our research indicates that the physical act of smashing, banging and breaking is very pleasurable in itself. For people who feel powerless, such acts of destruction are chosen because they have an effect upon some part of the environment and are more easily accomplished than constructive acts."

6. True. Crime studies at the University of Michigan show that the basic step is learning to avoid being a victim. In many crimes, it is the victim's subtle cooperation with the offender which makes the crime possible. Bureau of Social Science Research specialist Lynn A. Curtis cites a typical example of victim participation in armed and unarmed robbery where the victim offers "temptation-opportunities": "A man flashes a roll of money at a bar or restaurant and then makes his way homeward on a dark street at night." It's further noted that the victims in an increasingly large number of thefts and burglaries cooperate with the criminal almost to the extent that an accomplice would—by leaving the keys in their cars, or leaving their houses unlocked.

THE RICE DIET

IT'S A HEALING DIET AS WELL AS A REDUCING DIET

The famous Rice Diet wasn't even designed for taking off fat. It was created as a healing diet. And heal it does.

IT CONTAINS NO CHOLESTEROL

Medical Research has acclaimed a no-fat diet as being of paramount aid in the treatment of certain heart and kidney conditions. Scientists also advocate this program as the basis of a general reducing diet.

The health value of this diet is founded upon the fact that it contains no cholesterol – which many doctors believe dangerous to the heart, kidneys, and blood circulation.

THE DIET REVERSES MUCH DAMAGE DONE BY HEART DISORDERS

Twenty-five years ago our medical establishment was extremely skeptical of the startling discovery that the Rice Diet reverses much of the damage done by blood vessel, eye, heart, and kidney disorders. Without any medication other than a prolonged diet largely composed of unsalted rice, some enlarged hearts grew smaller, blood pressures and blood sugar dropped.

CLAIMS FOR THE RICE DIET VERIFIED BY TEAMS OF DOCTORS

Teams of doctors from leading institutions around the world investigated the diet. They thought that they would scoff at the claims, but they applauded instead. "The question now," concluded a report in one eminent medical journal, "is not 'Does the diet work?' The question is 'How does it work?'"

FAMOUS PEOPLE HAVE ENDORSED THE RESULTS OF RICE DIETING

"I truly would have died if I hadn't gone" on a program of rice dieting, says the wife of a former state governor. "I was seriously ill and weighed 230 pounds." She dropped 80 pounds in 19 weeks and her blood sugar plummeted as well. (Since the diet is largely carbohydrate, this is one of the mysteries of it.)

A famous singer and movie actor, on the other hand, got hooked on the taste of the diet and lost 80 pounds, too. He still follows the diet every day. Before the Rice Diet, he had been on a high-protein diet for ten years or so: "I used to have to put down a pound of steak before a recording," he says. "Now, I can eat a little rice and sing like a bird."

The complete program brings you essential information and dozens of delicious menus and easy recipes for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

What in the World!

Kevin Dowling/Franz Furst

THE OTHER BARDOT
Life at the center

When your older sister is Brigitte Bardot, it's no easy task keeping up. Although Mijanou Bardot can't claim a universal audience, her oversized cushions and 40-foot-long python pillows have become the rage with international celebrities, from film director Roman Polanski to artist Salvador Dali. Said Dali of her creations: "Mijanou's works are far from inexpensive, but when you sit in one of those enormous cushions, it's like sitting in the center of the world, which coming from a surrealist is an unparalleled recommendation. I also have a dozen of her wonderful snakes adorning my coffin which is kept ready for me at all times." Country fresh-looking, with freckles and red hair, Mijanou bears little physical resemblance to her celebrated sister. But a woman who can capture the imagination of a Polanski or a Dali can be nothing short of fascinating.

Hal Linden, star of TV's "Barney Miller," on the connection between cops and TV: "I've always had a tremendous respect for cops, perhaps because I grew up in a rough neighborhood in New York and I wasn't a tough kid. I'm glad to say that I think they're more aware and broad-minded than they were 20 years ago. I recently went out with an anti-crime unit to see what their work was really like. What I learned from that experience was the overriding element of fear that cops have to live with every day if they want to survive." Can crime be curtailed? Linden says: "I think we must stop feeding our kids a diet of "soft white-bread" TV. All those mediocre situation comedies do is promote false ideas. I'm not saying that realism is the answer, but truth certainly is. I honestly believe that antisocial behavior is directly related to the pap Americans grow up on."

Hal Linden

DR. SARAH SHORT
Black lights and music

Are "cleaning your plate" and drinking milk really so important for kids? Flamboyant nutritionist Sarah Short says no. Dr. Short, of Syracuse University, says: "The myth that the fat baby is a happy one is false. Generally, all that happens is that they grow up to be fat, unhappy adults. Just as we think of the healthy adult as slim and trim, we should think of our young the same way. As far as feeding cow's milk to babies is concerned, it is difficult for the young baby to digest the tough protein curd which is found in cow's milk. Breast feeding is the optimum solution, although most infant formulas are just as good. I'd also like to correct the myth that cow's milk is the perfect food to give our children since it is practically devoid of the large amounts of iron and Vitamin C which are essential for both children and adults." Dr. Short, who feels that nutrition has been a badly neglected subject ("it's not even taught in most medical schools"), decided on a new approach. "I paint formulas on my legs in fluorescent colors and run as many as 11 slide projectors simultaneously along with black lights and music. This is part of a teaching experience to attract the students' attention. As a result, their grades have improved dramatically and my classes are overcrowded." Dr. Short, mother of three, acts as a consultant to Mead Johnson and Co. Her latest book is "Innovative Teaching of Nutrition."

QUITE A CARD

When we first wed, my wife and I
Enjoyed a bridge club. Don't ask why.
She still plays bridge, I never do.
Bridge as a waste of time, I view.
I once held hands that all admired
And bid as high as I desired.
But cardboard hands are not for me,
My wife I think would now agree.
I tell her (you might try this, sirs)
The best hands I have held were hers.

The bride of a struggling young writer was the hit of the evening at a party.

"She's charming!" the hostess said enthusiastically to the husband. "And her dress is a poem!"

"Not a poem," answered the young writer gloomily. "Sixteen poems, five short stories, nine essays and three advertising brochures."

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

SUZANNE SHARPE OF FT. WALTON BEACH, FL, ASKS:

"WHY DOES THE OCEAN LOOK BLUE?"

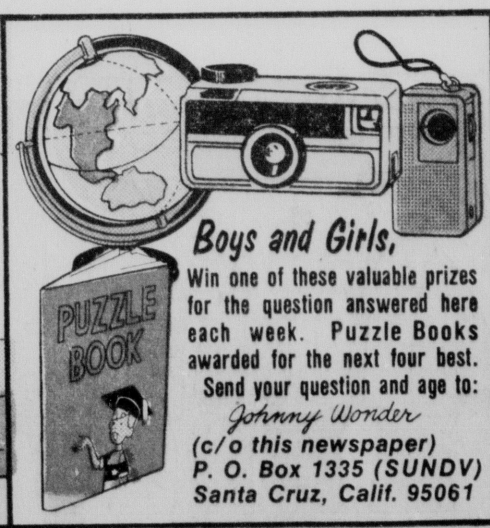

SEAWATER IS REALLY COLORLESS. BUT WHEN SUNLIGHT FALLS ON THE OCEAN, WHERE THE WATER IS DEEP AND CLEAR, ONLY THE BLUE RAYS OF SUNLIGHT ARE REFLECTED AND THE OCEAN LOOKS BLUE. THE OCEAN MAY NOT ALWAYS LOOK BLUE. IT MAY REFLECT THE COLOR OF A STORMY SKY AND LOOK GRAY INSTEAD. SOMETIMES BILLIONS OF TINY OCEAN LIFE CALLED PLANKTON HAVE GROWN IN THE WATER AND THE OCEAN MAY SHOW SUCH COLORS AS GREENS, REDS AND BROWNS.

DEAR POLLY — When our family goes to a parade or similar outing, we always take along some big plastic garbage bags. If rain comes we poke holes in the bottoms of the bags and slide them over our heads and have no worries about getting wet. No umbrellas along to worry about, either. — JO ELLEN.

DEAR POLLY — An ice chest is excellent to use for transporting plants. Water the plants, place in the chest and close. I have had plants survive a week in the chest with no ill effects, as the chest seems to act as a terrarium. — REBA.
